UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 9 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The situation remains calm; the RPA have now moved 150 troops into sector 4 to protect the new Prefects.

Repatriation has been suspended around Gikongoro while a meningitis vaccination programme is implemented.

The Rwandese Government have announced that no agency or NGO vehicle should provide lifts to any locals other than staff and that all Rwandese staff must carry identification papers.

UNDP have announced their draft outline for rehabilitation.

SECURITY

Increasing accounts of banditry and UNAMIR assessments of the possible signs of a build up to a guerilla war have all helped to increase the tension among the international community. Security is now a major issue; in Cyangugu, the UNREO Field Office reports that each agency and NGO will provide the following information to the UNHCR Security Officer: name of the person responsible for security; sketch map showing location of house and compound, number of persons resident and an inventory of communications equipment and frequencies. Travelling after night is not recommended.

The Rwandese Government has announced that agency/NGOs should not provide lifts in vehicles to any person not employed by that organization. This directive includes Rwandese military personnel. All Rwandese staff members should carry official documentation proving their employed status. This policy, according to the Prefect of Gisenyi who announced the policy at a meeting on 9 September, should allow free access through checkpoints.

REFUGEES

Returnee operations from the Gikongoro region have been suspended pending the completion of the meningitis vaccination programme (see South West). However, the UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that a second convoy operating on the locally agreed division of responsibilities reported in SitRep 05 September.

UNHCR have announced that they have stopped bringing people from camps in Goma back to Kigali for a brief visit as part of a programme to show people in Zaire what life is really like in Rwanda. The UNHCR say that the Rwandese Government have banned the policy on security grounds.

REHABILITATION

UNDP have announced their draft outline for the rehabilitation and reintegration programme in Rwanda; the immediate priorities have been decided as being:

1. Reactivation of local economic systems
2. Health
3. Education
4. Physical Planning and Administration
5. Human Rights in the broadest context including conflict prevention, land tenure and administration of justice.

Each of these sectors will be examined through five linked themes:

1. Reconciliation and Participation
2. Capacity Building in planning and programming and human resources training
3. Vulnerable groups
4. Environment
5. Gender Issues.

UNDP suggest that the programme will be implemented to include what they see as three fundamental principles of decentralization of decision-making, flexibility in implementation and simultaneous implementation of linked programmes.

HUMAN RIGHTS

An UNREO assessment team visited the site of a church outside Ntarama in Kigali prefecture. Approximately 400 people were massacred in and around the church during the war; the corpses remain where they fell. It has been reported that the residents of the village decided to leave the bodies in situ as a testament to the genocide committed by the former government.

POPULATION

There continues to be great uncertainty as to the numbers of people in camps, both within and outside Rwanda. UNREO are making efforts to bring in a demographer to concentrate on examining population flows in the region. A meeting is scheduled in Gikongoro for 9 September to discuss methods of counting numbers of displaced persons in the nearby camps.

SOUTH WEST

The RPA have now moved 150 troops into sector 4 in accordance with the agreement with UNAMIR. New Prefects have been established in several prefectures and the work of rehabilitating the civil administration has begun.

Repatriation activities around Gikongoro have been suspended until a meningitis vaccination programme can be completed. There has been concern that repatriation before this measure is complete could present unacceptable risks of spreading the disease to other areas.

The UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro reports that the meningitis vaccination programme to be undertaken around Cyanika camp and Gikongoro has been delayed for two days because of logistic problems. The programme to vaccinate 150,000 people is being extended to include the children's centre in Kigeme where 4 cases of meningitis had been discovered among the 600 children.

Friday, 30 September 1994

This sitrep is produced by UNREO Kigali three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, FAO, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 Friday, 30 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The overall situation is described as calm.

The returnee movement "Operation Homeward" resumed, Thursday, 29 September after a one day suspension.

One female returnee killed in accident when one truck in a 5-truck convoy overturned near Cyangugu.

REFUGEE MOVEMENT/DISPLACED PERSONS

UNAMIR reports that an estimated 75% of the population in the north east (sector 5) have returned to their homes.

UNAMIR also report that approximately 1,800 people have crossed into Burundi from Gitarama and Butare in the last few days.

The returnee movement for internally displaced person's "Operation Homeward" resumed Thursday, 29 September with the movement of 110 returnees from Gikongoro. The majority of people in Thursday's convoy were spontaneous returnees and had not been previously registered by UNHCR. The next convoy is scheduled to leave on Monday, 3 October.

In another returnee convoy from Cyangugu, a women was killed and 16 others wounded when a truck overturned. The accident occurred at Sagasha, approximately 15 kilometers out of Cyangugu. The convoy carried on to Kigali after medical attention was provided.

The British contingent of UNAMIR has estimated the population of displaced people in Rwanda as of 26 September as follows:

Sector	Region	Population Estimate
1	north east	290,000
2	south east	142,000
3	central south	434,000
4a	south west	775,360
4b	south west	51,000
4c	south west	74,500
5	north west	182,000
unlocated camps		18,100
Total		1,967,760

This estimate compares with their previous estimate from 14 September of 2,085,494. Copies of the Britcon report are available from UNREO. Britcon are asking NGOs and agencies working in the camps to help update their figures.

REHABILITATION

UNDP has been asked by the Rwandese Prime Minister to assist the Government in preparing a Round Table Conference for rehabilitation and reconstruction. The Government is anxious to hold the Round Table before the end of the year, preferably in New York. The conference will present an opportunity for the Government to present to the donor community its rehabilitation and reconstruction programme and seek their support in funding and implementation.

UNDP held a ceremony at its offices to hand over to the Government the first batch of vehicles, generators and office equipment. The equipment is intended for the Office of Prime Minister as well as five other key ministries to help them strengthen their management and institutional capacities. The Prime Minister Faustin Twagiramungu received the presentation from the UNDP Deputy Resident Representative Ahmed Rhazaoui.

EDUCATION

UNICEF report that at least 10 schools have opened around the country.

Campaigns in mine awareness and cholera awareness will be launched by UNICEF on 4 October and mid-October respectively. The materials for both campaigns complement the Teacher's Emergency package which is part of the overall "Education for Peace" campaign. The campaigns will feature both broadcast and print materials which will be disseminated throughout the country.

UNICEF is providing up to $300,000 worth of broadcasting equipment to Radio Rwanda to allow the station to function effectively. the co-operation is to improve the development and dissemination of messages of peace, human rights, health, sanitation and nutrition education.

FOOD SUPPLY

WFP has reported that although donor response to the Rwanda Regional Crisis is encouraging with confirmed pledges as of 19 September totalling 247,533 metric tons valued at US$ 141,087,567 million there is still a shortfall which must be covered if WFP is to carry out its mandate effectively. Priority food resource needs for the region for the month of October are 16,055 tonnes of cereals, pulses, corn soya blend, salt, dried skimmed milk and sugar. 21,255 tonnes of commodities mainly cereals are needed for November and for December 38,885 tonnes of food aid will be required.

In a food coordination meeting held on Wednesday, 28 September WFP indicated that it wished to go into various food assistance programmes which would include a Food-for-Work programme for School teachers, a programme to set up nutritional centres as well as a primary school feeding programme. It was also getting planning seed distribution in Butare and Gitarama. WFP noted that it was not possible for it to undertake these activities alone and requested support from Agencies/NGOs.

AGRICULTURE

UNICEF has completed its harvesting activities for the season, It has assisted the Government harvest 25% of this season's crop, mainly beans and sorghum, by providing trucks and other technical support.

FAO are bringing a television crew to Kigali on 1 October to film the first phase of an agricultural rehabilitation programme. The crew will film the various stages of the seeds and tools distribution programme, from the planning meeting through to collection by the farmers.

UNACCOMPANIED MINORS

Save the Children U.K. and WFP have proposed a system to ensure a balanced distribution of WFP food stores among all children's centers. They are recommending that one NGO take charge of food transport and distribution in each prefecture.

CARE Australia has a proposal for active recruitment of foster families for unaccompanied minors in Rwanda. This type of program is already under way in the Katale camp in Zaire.

OTHER INFORMATION

Access to Kigali airstrip will become more tightly controlled as from 3 October. Only those with operational duties on the airstrip will be allowed access.

The exchange rate for the Rwandese Franc has changed against the dollar, moving from 350 in Kigali two months ago to 200 and lower as of 29 September.

REGIONAL SECURITY AND PERSPECTIVES

GOMA TRIP REPORT 28 - 29 SEPTEMBER 1994 USAID-DART/UNREO

CONTEXT

This report concludes the mission's travel around the region in an effort to gain a regional perspective of the Rwanda emergency.

The findings of the initial mission were rather pessimistic as to the sustainability of refugee camps in Tanzania and political stability in Burundi. However, the mission report tried to highlight some opportunities and positive ongoing initiatives in the region such as a holistic plan for repatriation of refugees (notwithstanding the effects of the "UNHCR report") and the political compromises in Burundi.

Unfortunately, the conclusions of this mission to Goma leave little hope for optimism as concerns the future of Rwanda and even the region. The return of Rwandans to Zaire with reports of RPF exactions has effectively shut off spontaneous repatriation and has further reinforced the authority of the interahamwe and other hardliners within the refugee population. Under these conditions prospects for reconciliation in the short term are exceedingly dim. Information supporting this conclusion:

- The Hutu population in Goma perceive themselves as victims of an RPF aggression dating back to 1990 and, as a result, downplay the gravity and significance of the events that followed the downing of the President's plane in April.
- In the eyes of the refugees RPF committed atrocities from 1990 and continue to do so with impunity. The fact that bodies cannot be found is attributed to careful execution of their plan.
- Refugees' stated preconditions for return to Rwanda include, general amnesty combined with judgment of the leaders/organizers of both parties, a return of properties seized by Tutsis since April, and recognition of the government in exile as a legitimate political institution.

Refugees further state that the only way they would return to Rwanda would be to retake power. Any attempt at discussing with refugees their peaceful return under the present RPA regime leads to immediate hostility.

GENERAL FINDINGS

- Over the last month or more spontaneous repatriation of refugees from Zaire, while small compared to the size of the refugee population, has nevertheless been fairly steady with UNHCR counting up to 2,000 refugees per day crossing at monitored checkpoints. Seeds and tools distributions by NGOs working in the Gisenyi and Ruhengeri areas have been prepared with resettlement of these populations in mind. Since the 20th of September this trend has reversed. Rwandan Hutus are returning from Rwanda to Zaire with stories of RPA exactions. As many as 350 per day have crossed in recent days while the flow into Rwanda has fallen to as low as 129 at monitored checkpoints.
- There is fear that the international community's plan to relocate the military far from the camps will further strengthen the interahamwe's grip on the refugee population.
- Notwithstanding the above, the FAR, which heretofore has been a visible presence in Mugunga camp, appears to have withdrawn, possibly south towards/to Bukavu. According to some, the former army is rearming and training for a push back into Rwanda. It is said that the refugee community will be used as a human cover for the preparation and execution of this plan.
- However the view of the departing French commander is that the FAR have withdrawn voluntarily from the general refugee population in order to receive humanitarian assistance. Having been disarmed when they crossed into Zaire, the FAR present no threat to the general situation and should be supported by the relief community. Note was made by the commander that the interahamwe, more than the military, are implicated in genocide yet they are receiving humanitarian assistance in the camps.
- Security in the camps has become more precarious. Recent efforts by UNHCR to move refugees from school rooms into camps were sabotaged when interahamwe spread the word that UNHCR was trying to force people back to Rwanda. Rival gangs ("scouts" who had been assisting UNHCR with the move versus "Sagesse" comprised of interahamwe) fought in Katale on September 28, resulting in several dead.
- Without special security forces, evacuation of expatriates in the event of a major security incident in the camps will be nigh impossible. The imminent departure of the French military force and the deployment of a Japanese contingent with a purely humanitarian focus raises this question more urgently.

- The Zaire military continue to prey on the local Zairean population and in return the population reacts violently, demonstrating against and killing the guilty parties.
- More worrying is the resurgence of ethnic tensions in the North Kivu region around Masisi, an area where conflict occurred in recent years between indigenous Zairean groups (notably the Hunde) and longtime Rwandan immigrants (Banyarwanda, comprised of Tutsis and Hutus). In a new spin, the influx of some 9 -10,000 Tutsi refugees forced from Goma by the Rwandan Hutus to the area, appears to have caused a split in the Banyarwanda. The Hutu elements are being supported by the Hunde against the Tutsi with local churches also implicated in taking sides in this new conflict. Reportedly several villages have been burned and a movement of displaced to the north has been noted. ICRC and other NGOs are following the situation.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
Wednesday, 28 September 1994

This sitrep is produced by UNREO Kigali three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, FAO, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 28 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The returnee programme for internally displaced persons, Operation Meward, coordinated by UNAMIR has been suspended after only 27 people volunteered for transport back to their home areas on 27 September.

The Rwandese government have announced plans for accreditation of NGOs working in the country.

UNAMIR will stop providing fuel to NGOs as from 31 September because stocks are now available commercially.

SECURITY

A message from the Spokesperson for the UN Secretary General regarding reports about alleged reprisal killings of returnees was read to the bi-weekly agency/NGO meeting chaired by UNREO. The message indicated that an investigation is underway into the allegations and that no UN official could give any comments on the matter until the results of the investigation are known.

A DHA Mine Clearance expert travelled to Gisenyi on 27 September to assess needs for a mine clearance program in the country. At the bi-weekly agency/NGO meeting chaired by UNREO, he requested input from NGOs regarding areas that are mined, and reminded them to check for mined locations with UNAMIR before expanding their missions into new areas. Safety tips for driving in areas that could contain mines are available at UNREO.

Nearly every Agency and NGO in Cyangugu is now in a position to communicate with others on handset. UNHCR channel 7 is the security channel. UNHCR repeater 2 will soon be functioning.

UNAMIR reports that 23 bodies were found near Rusumo in the south east. The bodies are approximately 1 month old.

REFUGEE AND DISPLACED POPULATION MOVEMENTS

Operation Homeward has been suspended for the time being after only 27 internally displaced volunteered to return from camps in the Gikongoro area. The plan had hoped to use up to 100 trucks to return up to 4000 people per day. It would seem that returnee confidence has dropped, perhaps due to a lack of seeds/tools in returnee areas or possibly because of recent reports about alleged reprisal killings of returnees.

UNAMIR also reports that in the last two days there has been a remarkable rate of refugee outflow from camps in the South-west of Rwanda into Burundi. The outflow is broken down as follows: 3,000 from Rurumba, 700 from Rwamiko and 1,000 from Kibeho.

UNAMIR reports that the rate of repatriation from Goma has notably decreased.

BRITCON HQ has produced a refugee/displaced persons list that consolidates information from camps in Rwanda, Zaire, Uganda, Tanzania and Burundi. BRITCON is seeking comments and updated information from humanitarian organizations by Friday, 7 October. Copies of the report are available at UNREO; data will be incorporated into an UNREO database.

WATER AND SANITATION

A coordination meeting for water and sanitation was held on Monday, 26 September 1994. Electrogas indicated that 85 percent of the population of Kigali receives pipeline water. The water treatment plant in the city is still receiving operational assistance from UNICEF and ICRC.

UNICEF, Austrian Relief Programme and MINITRAPE are preparing a letter of understanding to rehabilitate 260kms of water pipelines in the north east of the country. The project will benefit approximately 80,000 people.

UNICEF is preparing a letter of understanding with the company PWSS (Portable Water Supply Systems) to provide drinking water at the Kibeho camp in the south west. (population 60,000) PWSS is capable of processing 1.4 million litres per day.

NUTRITION

UNICEF reports that they have successfully completed their project to help the government harvest 25% of this seasons crop -- which included beans and sorghum -- before the start of the rainy season.

HEALTH

MSF (Suisse) have reported a measles and dysentery epidemic in the north east of Rwanda in the vicinity of Nyagatare. They have started a vaccination programme to support health centres in the area. The diseases have apparently been introduced by refugees returning from Uganda. MSF report that the pre-war population of the district has swelled from 20,000 to 60,000 as the refugees move in.

Several UNAMIR contingents who have been giving humanitarian assistance (particularly medical services such as field ambulance battalions) will be departing Rwanda in the coming months. They are proposing to organize meetings that should address transitional measures. The first meeting, organized by the British contingent, will be next Tuesday 4 October.

Memisa sent out a circular letter on 15 September to indicate that it now has its medical stores stocked up and that health partners can now order a limited list of drugs. The circular and an attached list of drugs is available at UNREO. Memisa has requested that those with a health budget to charge for such procurement should pay for the drugs but is willing to give for free those who do not have any such budgets as yet.

UNICEF reports that it is currently involved in training 25 trainers for two health campaigns: "The Clean Hands" campaign aimed at improved hygiene, as well as the "Food and Fluid" campaign to treat diarrhoeal disease and dehydration. These trainers will then train 500 community activists who will then promote these messages to community residents. UNICEF is also in the process of planning other activities with the Ministry of Youth, which is the focal point for the "Healthy Body" campaign.

UNICEF, in collaboration with WHO and UNDP, has also begun to work with the Ministry of Health in planning a workshop on health management for government officials in seven ministries at the end of October. The aim of this workshop is to assist the Ministry of Health determine their most important health priorities.

AGRICULTURE

FAO is receiving an additional 860 T of bean seeds. NGOs who are in a position to distribute these seeds should inform FAO. WFP, which is responsible for transporting these seeds, has said that 88 T of the seeds and 8,000 hoes have just arrived and another 100 T are on the way.

GOVERNMENT ADMINISTRATION

During the weekly UNREO agency/NGO meeting, a representative of the Ministry of Rehabilitation outlined various requirements from the Government that relate to agency/NGO activity.

1. The Government assisted by a private company will begin to charge taxes and custom duties on goods coming into the country as follows:

- All goods for humanitarian Assistance will be exempt from all government tax but will be subject to a handling fee of 1% of value. A UN/NGO working group is investigating the best way to proceed.
- All other goods not for Humanitarian assistance will be taxable at 4% of total value of imports. (3% of this will go to the Government and 1% will go to the private company to cover all handling/storage charges.)

ii. The Ministry of Rehabilitation requested that all NGOs working in Rwanda submit an activity report for the months of July and August. The ministry repeated the request at the weekly meeting and asked that the deadline for the reports be 30 September. These reports and subsequent monthly reports will influence accreditation of NGOs which will be introduced under new legislation that is currently being drafted.

There are likely to be three phases to accreditation. Firstly, all NGOs working in the country will have to register with the Ministry of Rehabilitation, then with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to prove bona fide NGO status in the home country, and finally with the functional Ministry dealing with their area of operation.

OTHER INFORMATION

UNAMIR will stop providing petroleum, oil and lubricants to all NGOs as of 31 September because fuel is now commercially available in major centres of the country. NGOs that have received fuel from UNAMIR sources will shortly receive an invoice covering those deliveries.

SECURITY

UNHCR will continue to provide basic assistance to spontaneous returnees despite misleading press reports that they have changed their policy.

In its usual endeavour to establish whether conditions were conducive to an organized mass repatriation of the Rwandese refugees, a UNHCR team visited different parts of the country, interviewing local residents, internally displaced persons and returnees. The team also interviewed refugees in neighbouring countries.

The information gathered by the team about the security conditions prevailing in some areas of the country was sufficiently alarming to lead UNHCR, jointly with the Office of the UN Secretary General, to request the Government of Rwanda to investigate the situation and to take appropriate measures.

UNHCR has never actively encouraged the return of refugees until their safety could be guaranteed. As such, UNHCR will keep assisting spontaneous returnees, the internally displaced persons as well as those returnees who have been outside Rwanda for a long period. UNHCR will also keep cooperating with the competent authorities in establishing conditions conducive to an organized voluntary repatriation movement.

In response to the allegations, a team made up of Broad Based Government of National Unity (BBGNU) Ministers of Interior, Youth and Sports and Higher Education together with representatives from the UNAMIR military, the Office of the SRSG, the office of the UN Coordinator for Human Rights, and the UNHCR travelled to Rusumo and Rutondo (near Rwamagana) in sector 2 to investigate the allegations of brutality against Hutu returnees. The team interviewed fifteen people and was unable to confirm or deny allegations of atrocities in these areas.

UNREO stressed the need for any allegations to be fully investigated before being made public. By giving credence to reports which may be incomplete, the international community could either be undermining the emergence of a legitimate and committed government, or alternatively, undermining the full weight of evidence which could be brought against the perpetrators.

REFUGEE AND DISPLACED POPULATION MOVEMENTS

UNHCR will continue to assist spontaneous returnees. This refutes misleading press reports that they have changed their policy. (see Security)

UNAMIR reported that as of the end of this week a total of 35,000 displaced persons have been transported by UNAMIR, UNHCR/IOM and other organizations since returnee operations started.

CARE reports that the number of returnees using their waystations in the north west have remained constant at an average of 1800 per day for the past three weeks.

The UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that the number of people returning from Zaire to Rwanda has dropped significantly with 232 being registered on 24 September. Similarly, the number of people leaving Rwanda to Zaire has increased in recent days to 229 on 24 September. This alteration of the trend coincides with the publication of press reports about the UNHCR security survey.

A coordination meeting between UNREO, NGOs and UNAMIR was held 24 September to discuss details of Operation Homeward. This was an offer by UNAMIR to make available up to 100 trucks to assist in the voluntary return of internally displaced persons in remote camps in the Gikongoro area. Despite concerns about the level of NGO and UN agency involvement in the initial planning of the Operation, the meeting agreed to proceed if conditions to receive the returnees were adequate.

The first move is scheduled for 26 September with some 750 returnees being transported to Mugasa, Muyira, Ntyazo and Rusitira communes. The detailed planning is being carried out in Butare with UNREO providing coordination support to the Operation. Over the weekend of 24-25 September, UNICEF trucked several tonnes of relief supplies and water storage equipment to Butare and Gikongoro to support Operation Homeward.

UNACCOMPANIED CHILDREN

UNICEF have announced they will be setting up a country-wide database, which should ease tracing of children and parents. They will produce a book with photos and use TV and radio to promote reunification of children with families, or placement with foster families.

ASSESSMENTS

A joint assessment by UNREO and USAID-DART of the regional impact of the Rwandan emergency and the most urgent needs in camps as the rainy season approaches took place 15-20 September. The team travelled to Burundi and Tanzania. A copy of this assessment can be accessed at UNREO. The main points are:

- the large influx of Hutu refugees (including former RGF soldiers and militia) into Burundi, Tanzania and Zaire has the potential to trigger, if not exacerbate existing humanitarian crises and political tensions in each of these countries.
- although the power sharing agreement signed in Burundi on September 10 is very positive, the lack of endorsement by the extremists of both sides could compromise the agreement. There are also additional pressures caused by the existence of militant armed Hutus in Uvira and Benaco camps.

- there is growing friction between the predominantly Hutu Rwandese refugees in north Burundi (estimated 237,500) and the internally displaced population in Burundi because the refugees receive a full food ration while the internally displaced receive only a half ration.
- an estimated 200,000 Rwandan Tutsis who have been long term refugees in Burundi have recently returned to Rwanda. These new arrivals are settling on land vacated by fleeing Hutus who now reside in Tanzania. It will be crucial that land tenure issues are resolved.
- Tanzania now hosts nearly 500,000 refugees along its northwestern border with Rwanda and numbers continue to grow. In the last month the Ngara camps have received an average of 1-2,000 new arrivals per day while the Karagwe District camps count between 50-500 per day.
- the profile of the camp populations in Tanzania is of concern to the international community. The leadership structure that existed in Rwanda previously, part of which was directly involved in the genocide, has transferred to these camps where it is respected and recognized by the refugees.
- the geographical location of the camps combined with pressing problems of extremely limited fuelwood resources and inadequate water and sanitation make the immediate development of a repatriation strategy a priority. At present the allegations of reprisals against Hutu returnees is a barrier to this process beginning. It is very important that allegations of RPA reprisals against Hutu returnees are only aired in public if there is irrefutable evidence of this. (see Repatriation)

REHABILITATION

UNDP and the Ministry of Planning signed a second project document on 23 September for US$1 million. Its main objective is to set up coordination structures at the prefectural level and provide assistance to the local populations in response to their immediate needs for rehabilitation and reconstruction.

The first batch of equipment to be provided by UNDP to seven ministries arrived in Kigali on 25 September. It includes vehicles, computers, photocopy machines, typewriters and generators. The equipment will be handed over to the concerned ministries shortly.

A joint UNICEF/WHO/Ministry of Health assessment of the status of the primary health care infrastructure began on 26 September, involving 15 teams of investigators around the country.

UNICEF reports that the major water treatment plants in Rwanda, with the exception of Butare, are now functioning.

UNICEF has now reached agreement with seven ministries to provide emergency financing for repair and rehabilitation of war-damaged ministries (Ministries of Health, Primary Education, Higher Education, Social Welfare, Womens and Family Affairs, Reconstruction and Rehabilitation and Public Works).

HEALTH

The Ministry of Health, UNICEF and World Health Organization have established a health information system to collect data about morbidity/mortality and trauma treatment around the country. NGOs working in the health sector can hand in the forms to the Minisante Epidemiology Department in Kigali or at the District Medical Offices or UNICEF in other prefectures. The data will be used to assist in resource allocation and programme planning/evaluation in the health sector.

EDUCATION

With UNICEF/UNESCO cooperation using the Teacher Emergency Package ("School in a Box"), primary schools in Kigali re-opened on 26 September.

TRANSPORT

UNAMIR has issued a circular that highlights the practice to be followed for VIP departures/arrivals at Kigali airport. The Chief of Security should be informed in advance. Vehicles conveying VIPs to/from aircraft shall remain parked in the vehicle parking yard on the landside of the VIP lounge. VIPs using the main terminal building shall use the passenger channels departing and arriving.

DEMINING

A DHA landmine assessment mission is currently in Rwanda examining the humanitarian operational needs for demining. The mission is meeting with the government, UNAMIR, UN humanitarian agencies and interested NGOs to assess the priorities for future mine clearance. When the survey of needs is completed, a comprehensive mine clearance plan will be agreed between DHA and DPKO.

There are an estimated 40-60,000 mines awaiting clearance within the country.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
Friday 23 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, FAO, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID/DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 23 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The overall situation is described as being generally calm with no serious incidents being reported.

There is concern about reports of ex-government soldiers moving into Tanzania.

UNAMIR are preparing to transport up to 4000 internally displaced people per day as from next week.

ICRC reported that Mahanza camp near Kibuye has been burnt to the ground. The camp used to hold 7,000 people.

UNAMIR will be sending a team to join the "Joint Task Force" in Zaire which will work with the Zairean government to plan the movement of the refugees in Goma to sites further from the border.

A mass grave of 8,033 bodies was found near Gafunzo.

Air Kenya will begin commercial flights to Kigali from the beginning of October.

SECURITY

A UNHCR spokesperson said that dozens of former Rwandan soldiers have left refugee camps in Zaire and made their way by an unknown route to Ngara in Tanzania. There is concern that the soldiers could be regrouping for the start of a possible guerrilla war. The presence of soldiers in Goma continues to cause insecurity.

REFUGEE AND DISPLACED POPULATION MOVEMENTS

UNAMIR are preparing to transport up to 4000 internally displaced persons every day from camps in the Gikongoro area to the major route between Butare and Gitarama. UNAMIR have targeted those camps which will particularly difficult to reach when the rainy season is firmly established. The aim is to remove as many volunteer returnees as possible before transport to these sites becomes too difficult. The plan has caused some concern in the humanitarian relief community that they were not consulted about the details of the operation. A meeting is scheduled for 23 September to discuss the UNAMIR plan and identify the best way to proceed with the returnee operation.

UNHCR reported that people continue to cross into Tanzania from Rwanda at a rate of approximately 1,000 per day.

UNREO Cyangugu reported that 612 persons crossed from Zaire to Rwanda on 22 September. 12 IOM and WFP trucks carrying 840 returnees to Gitarama (79 persons) and Kigali (761 persons) will leave today.

BRITCON reported that they have transported 1,088 people from Musange camp near Gikongoro back to their home areas. The transportation operation from this camp has been completed. They also have 6 trucks that shuttle between Gisenyi and Ruhengeri which carry approximately 400 people per day.

UNHCR has increased its programme to provide assistance to returnees and internally displaced persons inside Rwanda. The budget from August to December is US$21 million. Under this programme 115,000 spontaneous returnees have already been provided with food and non-food assistance. In addition transport has been provided within Rwanda. Over 200,000 people have returned to Rwanda from the caseload that left after April 6. 150,000 "long term" refugees have returned to Uganda and Burundi.

REHABILITATION

On 22 September the Rwandese Prime Minister Faustin Twagiramungu signed a project document with UNDP to assist the government in improving its administrative capacity. The project will focus on the key ministries and is budgeted for US$1 million. The technical assistance package will provide basic and essential items of equipment to provide the tools for the ministries to be able to function.

TRANSPORT

Air Kenya will begin commercial flights to Kigali from the beginning of October. As of 1 November Sabena plan to start flights from Belgium through Nairobi to Kigali. The insurance premium has been increased for flights into Kigali. Sabena is paying US$22,000 per flight to Kigali.

UNAMIR have confirmed that they will stop passenger flights to non UN and UN agency staff as of 30 September 1994 because commercial flights will be available.

In the past few days USAF and RAF have both used Airwanua to handle and offload their aircraft. They have not needed the assistance of the international loading teams. The USAF have ceased payments of staff at the airport. This is now the responsibility of the airport authority.

General Gerald, Commander of the US Joint Task Force concluded at a press briefing that the US mission had been successfully completed. The US have given assistance with water purification, airport management and airlift capacity. Over US$80 million has been given in airlift support. In addition to this a Civilian Military Operation Centre (CMOC) was formed which interfaced with UNREO, UN agencies and NGOs. The US operation will end at the end of the month.

UNHCR have completed the training of the first group of marshalling staff for the airport.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
Wednesday 21 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, FAO, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 21 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The situation remains generally calm across the country although tensions have recently increased as RPA troops carry out house-to-house searches for weapons and ammunition.

A UNAMIR aerial reconnaissance of the Kigali region observed that the countryside remained sparsely populated and there is no flow of refugees in the rural areas.

Mr Kofi Annan, Under Secretary General for Peace Keeping Operations, is continuing his mission to the country.

Ambassador Robert Dillon, Special Envoy of the Secretary General, has completed his mission to examine regional approaches to the emergency and flies back on 21 September.

The burial of dead Rwandan refugees was halted in Goma because of extortion of local gravediggers by armed Zairean soldiers.

SECURITY

At an UNREO general meeting on 20 September, a representative of the RPA reported that they will search homes throughout Rwanda for arms and ammunition. He estimated that 100,000 weapons were distributed to the militia before the war. He stressed the importance of confiscating arms for the protection of the Rwandese people.

Those harbouring the weapons, including machine guns and grenades, have been arrested. However, there is concern among the NGOs that such a policy could cause panic in the area.

The burial of dead Rwandan refugees was halted in Goma after bands of armed Zairean soldiers began extorting money from gravediggers. Reports suggest that hundreds of corpses are left unburied, posing a new health hazard in this area which has already suffered from epidemics of cholera, dysentery and malnutrition. Caritas International is in charge of burials.

RETURNEES

The UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reported that convoys for returnees will now be operating on a daily basis to transport people back to Kigali via Butare. The figures for people returning from Zaire to Cyangugu show a continuing trend of more people returning to Rwanda than leaving for Zaire. However, the numbers of returnees have declined since the RPA became more visible at the border entry points.

EDUCATION

Primary schools opened for the first time since April on September 19 in Ruhengeri province.

Schools in Byumba, Kigali, Kibungo, Gitarama, Butare and Gisenyi provinces will open during this week. The UNESCO/ UNICEF Teachers Emergency Package (TEP), or "school in a box" have been provided to help schools with a lack of teaching and learning equipment to get started. The "school in the box" costs US 170 which is approximately US$2 per child.

NUTRITION

UNICEF is currently training personnel in two unaccompanied children's centres. The training programme involves the assessment of the nutritional status of young children, as well as nutritional care for malnourished children. Based on this work, training modules will be revised and training carried out on a larger scale.

MSF (F), MSF (B) and UNICEF are currently working together to develop and implement a formal nutrition assessment for the whole country.

UNACCOMPANIED CHILDREN

UNICEF, SCF(UK) and SCF(US) are finalizing cooperative agreements related to child tracing and family reunification for unaccompanied children. UNICEF has agreed with the Ministry of Rehabilitation and Reconstruction to immediately locate a senior advisor on unaccompanied children and a liaison officer within the Ministry.

HEALTH

UNICEF, WHO and the Ministry of Health have distributed a weekly morbidity/ mortality report form. Analysis of the results have begun.

UNICEF reports that the health facility assessment for Rwanda is on- going. One hundred and twenty health centre forms have been returned so far. UNICEF hopes to provide a preliminary analysis of the results by the end of the week. On the basis of the information received, it will be determined which health facilities have been severely damaged.

Also, the Central Medical Store (OPHAR) is now completely rehabilitated and is ready to receive drugs and equipment. The Minister of Health has hired new and old staff to work in the pharmacy. A drug inventory is currently underway. Once this is completed, the Central Medical Store will require restocking. The central cold chain has been rehabilitated and has been supplied with a large quantity of vaccines. The cold chain store from Kabale in Uganda has been brought to Kigali.

WATER AND SANITATION

UNICEF reported that the water supply in urban Kigali is being generated normally, but underwritten by the international community. A cost-recovery mechanism is being studied so that consumers can begin paying their own utility bills. In Gikongoro and the South West, UNICEF has completed negotiations with a US company to establish a water supply network based at Kibeho camp (160,000+ population).

KIGALI

The UNAMIR Force Health Officer has inspected several restaurants in the Kigali area to assess their public health status. The following recommendations were made:

Snack Le Palmier (Tam Tam) - the assessment found unhygienic slaughtering, storage and cooking of meats and it is recommended that UN troops should not eat at the restaurant. Consumption of drinks be restricted to those manufactured in Uganda.

Le Petit Kigali - the conditions were found to be hygienic and recommended that UN troops could eat at the restaurant, though should avoid the local beer Primus.

Joker - the restaurant has no power, sanitation or cleaning facilities and UN troops are recommended not to visit the restaurant.

Kigali Nights nightclub - no problems about visiting the site, but UN troops are recommended not to eat the goat kebabs available.

The Force Health Officer "strongly encourages" UN and NGO personnel not to eat at a local restaurant unless it has been inspected.

OTHER INFORMATION

The American Embassy have asked all United States passport holders operating in Rwanda to register with the Embassy in Kigali. Registration cards are available in the DART mailbox at UNREO base. For people working in the field and unable to register, the Embassy asks the parent organization to inform them about names, location, passport number and planned length of stay.

There have been reports of counterfeit RwFr5000 notes in circulation. It had been alleged that the counterfeit notes are distinguished by the women featured on the note wearing three necklaces rather than one. However, the Ministry of Interior have confirmed that these reports are false. The new notes are simply another print run and are legal tender.

ERRATA

In the situation report for 19 September, the figure quoted as World Bank arrears should read $3.75 million, not $3.75.

In the situation report for 19 September, it was noted that UNICEF have contracted a demining company to check and demine all schools and health centres. However, it must be noted that while negotiations are still underway, no such contract has been finalized as of 21 September.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
19 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 19 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

- The general situation in the country remains calm.

- The SRSG returned on 17 September from a visit to Tanzania, Zaire and Kenya. (see POLITICAL)

- Mr Kofi Annan, the Under Secretary General for Peace Keeping Operations is visiting Rwanda, Zaire and Uganda. (see SECURITY/ MILITARY)

- The Japanese government approved a plan to send 480 member mission to Goma, together with 4 aircraft and 80 vehicles. (see SECURITY/ MILITARY)

- The World Bank reported that it cannot release up to US$250 million in loans to Rwanda until arrears of US$3.75 are paid. (see FINANCE)

- The UNESCO/UNICEF "schools in a box" program will assist the estimated 700,000 children returning to school in the coming week. (see EDUCATION)

- MSF reported alarming mortality rates at Kibeho, south of Gikongoro (see HEALTH)

SECURITY/ MILITARY

- UNAMIR reported that the security situation in Rwanda remains calm. A corpse was discovered in the Kigali rubbish dump on 16 September; the deceased was tied and beaten to death.

- On 16 September UNAMIR reported that five people were killed and two injured in Gikongoro. 16,000 Rwandan Francs were stolen during this incident. It is unclear who carried out the killings. On the 18 September it was reported that one person was killed in the Gikongoro area.

- UNAMIR is carrying out investigations into both incidents.

- The RPA have set up road blocks in Kigali where they check for car registration papers.

- The RPA have partially taken over the airport at Cyangugu.

- Mr Kofi Annan, the Under Secretary General for Peace Keeping Operations is visiting Rwanda, Zaire and Uganda. He is participating in the closing ceremony for UNOMUR on Tuesday 20 September in Uganda.

- The Japanese government have approved a plan to send 480 member mission to assist Rwandan refugees in Goma, together with 4 aircraft and 80 vehicles. The troops will help to set up medical facilities, purification of water and transportation systems. They are expected to return to Japan early next year.

- UNICEF has hired demining experts to check and demine all schools and health centres before they are opened to the public.

POLITICAL

- Ambassador Khan, the Special Representative of the Secretary General, returned from visits to Zaire and Tanzania. In Zaire he met with the President, the Prime Minister and the Ministers for Justice, the Interior, Defence and Foreign Affairs. In Tanzania he met with the President. He went together with a senior representative of UNHCR to address the problems posed by the Rwandan refugees to these two countries. At a press conference on 18 September he came to the following conclusions:

- the Zairean authorities have asked for help in transferring refugees to alternative sites at least 150 km from the border (in accordance with the OAU convention). This would relieve social, economic and political tensions caused by the large concentration of refugees.
- there are approximately 16,000 ex-government troops in the Goma area. This is causing considerable security problems. All soldiers should convert to civilian status (and be given the clothes to do so) so that UNHCR and ICRC can assist them. At present it is against the mandates of both organisations to assist the military.
- the Zairean Minister of Defence has been asked to set up a joint task force with a logistician, a finance expert, a representative from UNHCR and a representative from the political wing of UNAMIR. This task force will assess where the new camps should be located, how many people should be transferred to these camps and what facilities exist in these areas.
- due to the fact that the majority of ex-government ministers and military are in Zaire, there is a greater need to concentrate efforts on relieving security problems in Zaire than in Tanzania.

FINANCE

The World Bank reported that it cannot release up to US$250 million in loans to Rwanda until arrears of US$3.75 are paid. The arrears were accumulated between April and July. Francisco Aguirre-Sacasa, the World Bank's director of the Central Africa and Indian Ocean department, said that Rwanda has credits of US$ 250 but World Bank rules do not allow the release of money until arrears are paid. Once the arrears are paid the World Bank will be ready in the next two or three months to transfer US$100 million in loans per year to Rwanda.

EDUCATION

UNICEF estimates that 70% of the 1 million school age children in Rwanda could return to school under UNESCO/ UNICEF's "school in a box" program. These "school in a box" packages include educational supplies (e.g chalk, writing paper, text books, health guidelines and mine awareness information) for a class of 40 students for one semester. To date, 600 "schools in a box" have been produced. It is hoped that around 9,000 will be produced and distributed in the future. WFP is also offering assistance for this project. UNICEF, possibly in collaboration with UNDP, intends to inspect school buildings to assess the need for basic repairs.

HEALTH

MSF reported that they carried out a survey at Kibeho (south of Gikongoro) which has a population of approximately 60,000 people. MSF is responsible for sanitation in these camps. The global mortality rate is 7.17/10,000/Day, which is considered to be alarming. 74% are dying of dysentery. The British Medical Force provides out-patient facilities to the camp. However, the fact that there is no hospital means that effective rehydration treatment for dysentery is not possible. MSF will carry out a similar survey in Ndago where the results are expected to be similar.

UNICEF will rehabilitate at least 150 health centres by the end of 1994. SCF UK intends to rehabilitate an additional 30 centres. UNICEF also intends to revive the national Expanded Programme for Immunization (EPI).

WATER AND SANITATION

DART Rwanda reported that priority needs for water and sanitation in Kigali and other areas of Rwanda include:

- electrical connection of generators at pumping stations in Kigali;
 - provision of diesel fuel for generators;

- transportation for electrogaz personnel to work on water lines;
- repairs to the distribution network in Kigali to reduce leakages;
- replenishment of chemical supplies at water treatment plants;
- provision of sanitation in Kigali, including a "Clean Up Kigali" campaign;
- completion of repairs to Butare water pumps or installation of alternative systems;
- repairs to gravity pipelines in the north east;
- additional water bladders and tanker deliveries to areas of Kigali which are not currently served.

TRANSPORTATION

- UNHCR will transport 2,400 people from Musange (north of Gikongoro) back to their home areas today. With the rains coming up it is urgent that people return to their home areas to work the fields.
- IOM now has the capability (when fully utilized) to transport 2,300 people per day on three major routes in Rwanda. This capacity is expected to double in the next two weeks.
- From 15-16 September UNAMIR transported 223 displaced persons from Cyangugu and 150 displaced persons from Gisenyi. UNHCR transported 95 displaced persons from Cyangugu and 200 from Gisenyi.
- UNAMIR have announced that as of 1 October they will no longer fly non-UN personnel. Non-UN personnel will have access to commercial flights.

REHABILITATION

UNDP is holding discussions with several ministers with a view to defining priority areas for technical assistance and elaborating a short term (6 month) and medium term (2 year) rehabilitation programme. In the mean time emergency equipment (logistical support, generators, office equipment etc) is being provided to several ministries.

ASSESSMENTS

- A joint assessment between the Government, UNDP, ICRC, WFP and SCF UK of the Butare area concluded that a seed distribution in the area is needed.
- The Ministry of Family and Women's Affairs would like to undertake a country wide assessment of the needs of Rwandese women. All the documentation at the ministry was lost during the war. They will need support to reestablish a database of information.

OTHER

In Kigali there is a "humanitarian frequency" which is monitored by UNREO from 0700-1900 and by UNAMIR from 1900-0700. NGOs interested in having their radios programmed can come to UNREO. The frequencies are as follows:

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
16 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, FAO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 16 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

Various government prefectures have announced their plans for the reopening of primary and secondary schools in the coming weeks. (See education)

Repatriation efforts are increasing in frequency and coordination in the Cyangugu prefecture. However reports from Benaco, Tanzania are that there are increasing numbers of Rwandans entering the camp. The overall security situation within the country remains constant though there are increasing numbers of mine injuries reported across the country.

The Government of Rwanda has initiated bi-weekly press briefings. (See human rights). The city of Kigali enjoyed several hours of power plant generated electricity yesterday though the system is far from repaired.

Ambassador Robert Sherwood Dillon, Special Envoy of the UN Secretary General who is charged with looking at the Rwandan crisis within its regional context has recently visited Ngara and south-west Rwanda. Today he will meet with Government and UN officials in Burundi, he will visit Goma next week.

Non-governmental organizations currently registered with the NGO Unit number 100.

EDUCATION

Many Rwandan primary and secondary schools are scheduled to commence with classes in the next week.

Byumba Prefecture schools will begin operating on 17 September. An estimated 4,600 children have been registered and 112 teachers have been identified. Primary and secondary schools in Ruhengeri are due to open on Monday, 19 September and schools in Gikongoro are scheduled to commence on 27 September. Education authorities in the various prefectures are asking for assistance in the rehabilitation of schools and procurement of educational materials. Many of the ~~teachers~~ currently receiving training are working without pay but are committed to the reintroduction of the education system.

SECURITY

According to the UN, there are an estimated 50,000 anti-personnel mines in Rwanda. In a three week period the NGO 'Emergency' (working out of Kigali Medical Hospital) treated 40 patients injured by mines. 35 percent of those treated were under the age of 14. An increase in mine injuries in Ruhengeri has caused the Canadian military to respond with a public information effort to raise the local population's awareness of the presence of the mines. GOAL has reported from the Byumba prefecture that many roads remain unsafe for travel because of the large number of mines and booby traps in the area.

A 13 September UNAMIR advisory stated that NGOs in the South West should be accompanied by an armed escort because banditry remains a problem. However, due to the high degree of military traffic at this juncture, escorts have not been individually assigned to humanitarian organizations.

A murder suspect was arrested at Munini, Cyangugu. The suspect is alleged to have killed three members of the same family.

HUMAN RIGHTS

At a press briefing on Tuesday, 13, September, Government representative, Major Wilson Rutayisire expressed dismay and frustration with the pace of the international community's response to the genocide that has taken place in Rwanda. When asked why the government felt that the issue must be addressed so rapidly, Maj. Rutayisire responded, "Justice delayed is justice denied." He said that the government has said it will wait for the international community and the UN before taking action, but in the meantime the people of Rwanda want to know why their government does not appear to be addressing this issue.

In a meeting between the Secretary General's Special Envoy, Ambassador Dillon and NGOs operating within Rwanda, a number of NGO representatives stressed their concern with the slow pace with which the UN is sending in human rights monitors and investigators to Rwanda.

SOUTH WEST

UNREO-Cyangugu is assisting in the coordination of the repatriation activities of UNHCR, UNAMIR, IOM, ICRC, MSF and IRC. Between 7-15 September convoys departing Cyangugu have transported 1,574 persons to the following destinations:

Gikongoro	70
Butare	69
Giterama	226
Kigali	1,132
Kibuye	77

UNAMIR reports that since they began keeping records on 23 August through 12 September, 11,249 persons left Rwanda for Zaire and 15,961 persons left Zaire for Rwanda. In the last week it was reported that 502 people went to Zaire and 7,346 returned to Rwanda.

The Cyangugu Humanitarian community is also working together on contingency plans in the event that large numbers of people decide to return from Zaire within a very short period of time.

UN agencies and NGOs were introduced to the new Prefet of Cyangugu today.

A general meeting was held in Gikongoro. The Prefet of Gikongoro announced that all NGOs currently using government buildings should inform the Prefet so that a decision can be made regarding future use.

NORTH WEST

ICRC reported that the overall water supply for the Gisenyi area should be fully operational in the near future. Domestic electricity supply has been partially restored to Gisenyi town.

Provision and coverage of health care in the north west is more than adequate at present. The overall medical coverage supplied by fixed health facilities has continued to increase: MSF (H) has 11 clinics, SCF has 10 health clinics and AICF is operating a feeding centre in Ruhengeri. The main health problems are malaria and dysentery. There is a lack of skilled local medical staff for the reopening health facilities.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
16 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, FAO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 16 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

Various government prefectures have announced their plans for the reopening of primary and secondary schools in the coming weeks. (See education)

Repatriation efforts are increasing in frequency and coordination in the Cyangugu prefecture. However reports from Benaco, Tanzania are that there are increasing numbers of Rwandans entering the camp. The overall security situation within the country remains constant though there are increasing numbers of mine injuries reported across the country.

The Government of Rwanda has initiated bi-weekly press briefings. (See human rights). The city of Kigali enjoyed several hours of power plant generated electricity yesterday though the system is far from repaired.

Ambassador Robert Sherwood Dillon, Special Envoy of the UN Secretary General who is charged with looking at the Rwandan crisis within its regional context has recently visited Ngara and south-west Rwanda. Today he will meet with Government and UN officials in Burundi, he will visit Goma next week.

Non-governmental organizations currently registered with the NGO Unit number 100.

EDUCATION

Many Rwandan primary and secondary schools are scheduled to commence with classes in the next week.

Byumba Prefecture schools will begin operating on 17 September. An estimated 4,600 children have been registered and 112 teachers have been identified. Primary and secondary schools in Ruhengeri are due to open on Monday, 19 September and schools in Gikongoro are scheduled to commence on 27 September. Education authorities in the various prefectures are asking for assistance in the rehabilitation of schools and procurement of educational materials. Many of the teachers currently receiving training are working without pay but are committed to the reintroduction of the education system.

SECURITY

According to the UN, there are an estimated 50,000 anti-personnel mines in Rwanda. In a three week period the NGO 'Emergency' (working out of Kigali Medical Hospital) treated 40 patients injured by mines. 35 percent of those treated were under the age of 14. An increase in mine injuries in Ruhengeri has caused the Canadian military to respond with a public information effort to raise the local population's awareness of the presence of the mines. GOAL has reported from the Byumba prefecture that many roads remain unsafe for travel because of the large number of mines and booby traps in the area.

A 13 September UNAMIR advisory stated that NGOs in the South West should be accompanied by an armed escort because banditry remains a problem. However, due to the high degree of military traffic at this juncture, escorts have not been individually assigned to humanitarian organizations.

A murder suspect was arrested at Munini, Cyangugu. The suspect is alleged to have killed three members of the same family.

HUMAN RIGHTS

At a press briefing on Tuesday, 13, September, Government representative, Major Wilson Rutayisire expressed dismay and frustration with the pace of the international community's response to the genocide that has taken place in Rwanda. When asked why the government felt that the issue must be addressed so rapidly, Maj. Rutayisire responded, "Justice delayed is justice denied." He said that the government has said it will wait for the international community and the UN before taking action, but in the meantime the people of Rwanda want to know why their government does not appear to be addressing this issue.

In a meeting between the Secretary General's Special Envoy, Ambassador Dillon and NGOs operating within Rwanda, a number of NGO representatives stressed their concern with the slow pace with which the UN is sending in human rights monitors and investigators to Rwanda.

SOUTH WEST

UNREO-Cyangugu is assisting in the coordination of the repatriation activities of UNHCR, UNAMIR, IOM, ICRC, MSF and IRC. Between 7-15 September convoys departing Cyangugu have transported 1,574 persons to the following destinations:

Gikongoro	70
Butare	69
Giterama	226
Kigali	1,132
Kibuye	77

UNAMIR reports that since they began keeping records on 23 August through 12 September, 11,249 persons left Rwanda for Zaire and 15,961 persons left Zaire for Rwanda. In the last week it was reported that 502 people went to Zaire and 7,346 returned to Rwanda.

The Cyangugu Humanitarian community is also working together on contingency plans in the event that large numbers of people decide to return from Zaire within a very short period of time.

UN agencies and NGOs were introduced to the new Prefet of Cyangugu today.

A general meeting was held in Gikongoro. The Prefet of Gikongoro announced that all NGOs currently using government buildings should inform the Prefet so that a decision can be made regarding future use.

NORTH WEST

ICRC reported that the overall water supply for the Gisenyi area should be fully operational in the near future. Domestic electricity supply has been partially restored to Gisenyi town.

Provision and coverage of health care in the north west is more than adequate at present. The overall medical coverage supplied by fixed health facilities has continued to increase: MSF (H) has 11 clinics, SCF has 10 health clinics and AICF is operating a feeding centre in Ruhengeri. The main health problems are malaria and dysentery. There is a lack of skilled local medical staff for the reopening health facilities.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
14 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID, DART, US, ITF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 14 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

A survey of displaced persons in Rwanda carried out by the British Contingent of UNAMIR estimates that there are over 2 million internally displaced in the country. This is a significant increase over previous estimates.

There are now 93 NGOs registered with UNREO as operating in the region. 10 of these are local organizations.

There is still an urgent need for shelter materials in camps as the rainy season approaches

POPULATION

The British Army contingent of UNAMIR have produced a review of the camps in Rwanda and surrounding countries. The document lists 143 displaced persons and refugee camps. The report estimates the following numbers of persons within sectors:

Rwanda	Sector 1	290,000
	Sector 2	224,000
	Sector 3	424,000
	Sector 4a	821,094
	Sector 4b	51,000
	Sector 4c	74,500
	Sector 5	182,800
	Unlocated	18,100
Zaire	Goma	800,000
	Bukavu	320,000
	Uvira	190,000
Uganda		15,000
Tanzania	Ngara	300,000
	Karagwe	98,400
Burundi		179,500

If accurate, this would suggest a much higher displaced population than originally thought - 2,085,494 compared with previous estimates of a maximum of 800,000.

The USAID/Tanzania mission director reports that the total number of registered refugees in Kagera increased from 450,692 on August 19 to 489,882 on September 3. As of September 3 there are 357,615 refugees in the Ngara district; 248,535 in the Benaco camp; 87,337 in Luma camp, 10,046 in Musuhura Hill, 9,960 in Lukole camp and 1,737 in other locations. In the Karagwe district there are 125,667 refugees: 76,516 in the Chabilisa camp, 41,488 in the Kagenyi camp and 7,663 in the Murongo camp. There are an estimated 6,600 in the Burigi camp in the Muleba district.

UNAMIR reported on 14 September that 1500 people returned from Burundi over the last three days.

UNREO are still trying to bring a demographer into the country to examine the population flow estimates produced by the different agencies and organizations operating in the country.

SECURITY

The RPA continue to move into Sector 4. There are now estimated to be a brigade of troops in the area (3 battalions of approximately 800 men each). There are no reports from the UNREO Field Offices of tension in the sector. Refugee flows from Zaire have picked up again after a brief drop in returnees when the RPA first moved into the area.

REPATRIATION

UNAMIR have announced that they will allocate more vehicles to the transport of returnees as from next week. The UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that convoys continue to move successfully to Kigali. One convoy moves returnees every two days. The new transit camp selected to provide a starting point for returnees in the area will be operational from next week.

UNAMIR reported that 2000 potential returnees have registered for return from Gisenyi in Sector 4. They will be transported next week.

SOUTH WEST

The UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro reports that discussions are under way with the new Prefect to find a solution to RPA telling NGOs to move out of their premises. As the RPA move in to the area, there is a danger of a shortage of suitable accommodation. The Prefect agreed to attend the UNREO General Meeting on 14 September to hear the views of the NGOs.

The UNREO Field Office in Butare is meeting with the new Prefect to discuss coordination of relief activities in the Prefecture.

NORTH WEST

USAID-DART report that the need for plastic shelter material in Goma is still not sufficient. BIOFORCE carried out a survey of 207 shelters in Kibumba camp and found that 26% had no plastic sheeting. They reported that the coverage of shelter material is still unacceptable, particularly for vulnerable groups (eg elderly, teenagers, widows, female-headed households). With the rainy season now setting in, improved distribution of plastic is imperative.

UNHCR report that diarrhoea remains the major health problem in the camps. Malaria rates are also increasing due to the rainy season - estimated rates are 27% in Kibumba and 21% in Mugunga. Micro-climatic conditions in Kahindo and Katale camps (warmer and wetter) will probably cause higher rates of malaria outbreak. USAID-DART report that in Katale alone, malaria or "fever of unknown origin" increased from 24% during August 15-21 to 53% during August 29-September 4.

Reported deaths from health clinics for the week August 29-September 4 decreased on the previous week. The crude mortality rate dropped from 4.2/10,000/day to 2.5/10,000/day over the two weeks. Bloody diarrhoea continues to be the major killer with 204 deaths reported for the week ending August 28 and 95 for the week ending September 4.

- Sanitation conditions are improving health and living conditions in all refugee camps in the Goma area. USAID-DART report that managed defecation areas and platform latrines have made an immediate improvement in the camp environment. There are now 13 managed defecation areas in total (eight in Kibumba, three in Mugunga and two in Kahindo). There are some 1300 provisional drop hole latrines in Kibumba (173 persons/drop hole) and 734 in Katale (170 persons/drop hole).

OTHER INFORMATION

There are now 93 NGOs registered with UNREO. Of these, 10 are Rwandese. More emphasis is now being placed on rehabilitation and development needs as the emergency phase shifts.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
12 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 12 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

SECURITY

UNAMIR report that as of 11 September the RPA have 210 troops in Gikongoro, 180 in Cyangugu and 100 in Kibuye. The appearance of the RPA in sector 4 has not raised tensions although their visible presence at the border with Zaire could help explain the decrease in refugees returning to Rwanda. (see SOUTH WEST).

The security situation continues to deteriorate in Goma. (see NORTH WEST).

MSF report that they were held up for several hours in Ruhengeri by the RPA after they were on the road after the 18.00 curfew. They have appealed that such a curfew should not be applicable to medical emergencies.

UNAMIR have announced that 15 Rwandese suspected of criminal activities in the South West escaped from UNAMIR custody yesterday. There are still 17 prisoners in UNAMIR custody awaiting transfer to Kigali.

UNAMIR also announced that the Prefects for Cyangugu, Kibuye and Gikongoro have been installed and are each accompanied by a RPF platoon. It is expected that the platoons will be increased to companies (120 troops) by next week.

UNREO Gikongoro reports that several NGOs and WFP in Gikongoro are required by RPF to give up offices and stores.

SOUTH EAST

An UNREO assessment mission to Kibungo prefecture estimated that there approximately 100,000 people living in the area from a pre-war population of 600,000. The population level has been stable for the last few weeks, although there continue to be reports of hutus moving into Tanzania and long term tutsi refugees from Burundi moving into Kibungo prefecture. The assessment mission found that the infrastructure is coping with the population level at present and that people are foraging for food. However, there is concern that when the rains come a large number of people will need food aid.

c/o UNDP • Tel.: (871) 137 0660 • Fax.: (871) 137 0661

IMC has been operating in the area for the past 2 and half months. They have recently lost all of their local doctors and most of their local medical staff because there is no provision for the payment of salaries. They find that highly qualified staff are not prepared to accept a "food for work" payment. The majority of NGOs want to re-establish the Rwandese medical sector in a sustainable manner using local staff. This issue of salary levels is therefore becoming crucial (see Other Information). IMC have offered to act as a focal point for other NGOs interested in operating in the health sector in this area.

At Rwamagana the hospital (252 beds) has one surgeon provided by Terre des Hommes, Suisse. The hospital is functioning well.

In Kibungo the water supply is only available for 1-2 hours per day because there is a lack of fuel; the water supply network is also in need of repair.

A mass grave was discovered in the northern Kibungo town of Rukara.

SOUTH WEST

People continue to return from Zaire to Rwanda via Cyangugu although the numbers have dropped since the RPA moved into the area. (See Annex). The UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that some 3000 refugees are gathering at Kagenge in Zaire.

A meeting held in Gikongoro on 9 September discussed the problems of counting the numbers of displaced persons in the area. One of the problems is distinguishing between displaced and locals - for example, in Kibeho, plastic sheeting and other non-food items are distributed to 70,000 people but food is handed out to 100,000. In Gikongoro alone there are an estimated 48,000 displaced persons not living in camps. Some suggest the international community should provide food to those outside the camps as well as inside - it now appears that there is a greater problem of malnutrition outside the camps compared with inside. Such out-camp feeding also keeps the food prices down and helps to prevent a black market. On a food distribution day in Gikongoro the prices can be ten times lower than normal days. However, others suggest that such out-camp feeding hinders efforts to encourage people to return home and also depresses the local economy. The meeting in Gikongoro has decided to bring the new Prefect into the debate to help decide the best approach. The issue is also being aired at the inter-agency level in Kigali this week.

Today UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro reports that RPA troops have taken over Terre des Hommes private residence and a centre they were rehabilitating for unaccompanied minors. CAFE has been told to give up their office and store and MSF and WFP have each had to give up one mobile store. Many NGOs are fearful that they will now be forced to turn over their offices and accommodation and are currently seeking a meeting with the Prefect to discuss this issue. In the mean time, Terre des Hommes has decided to relocate their base of operation to Butare.

The BRITCON of UNAMIR report that their field ambulance service has treated over 80,000 local patients since they started operations in the country. On 9 September they treated some 2200 patients.

At Kibeho camp, four cases of measles have caused concern that an epidemic could occur given the rapidly communicable nature of the disease. Merlin have started a measles vaccination programme in the camp.

MSF report 16 incidents of cholera registered at Bukavu camp.

UNAMIR are worried about the amount of soldiers contracting malaria in Sector 4; in a circular to all units, the Deputy Force Commander has told troops to not dispose of used food containers carelessly because they can provide a site for mosquito breeding, especially in the rainy season.

NORTH WEST

A DHA assessment mission to Goma 9-10 September reported that there had been several violent incidents between the local population and the Zairean military in recent weeks. On 9 September at least one Zairean soldier was killed, allegedly by a local person. Reports suggest that the soldier had been harassing and extorting the local population. As tension rose between the military and the local inhabitants of Goma, the centre of town was off-limits to the UN and NGOs on 10 September for several hours because of a large demonstration of locals protesting against the attitude of the military. At approximately 1630 Zairean troops opened fire on the assembly and an unsubstantiated number of casualties were sustained. MSF vehicles were also looted. The situation is volatile and there are concerns that relations could deteriorate between refugees and the local population; there have been reports of refugees selling their relief supplies on the local market, depressing local prices. The concern is that the mobility, and safety, of the international relief community could be affected if tensions rise further. It is estimated that between 1000-1500 refugees spontaneously return to Rwanda every day from Goma.

AIRPORT

A meeting on 9 September heard that Kigali airport now handles an average of fifteen flights per day, although it can cope with up to two flights per hour over a twelve hour period. The Airport Manager thanked those agencies who have paid their invoices on time; as a result of prompt payment the airport staff was able to receive their first wages in four months. A list of airport and handling charges will be published next week, including landing fees at "Relief Rate". On 12 September it was announced that vehicles without airport passes would not be allowed on the field to pick up cargo and that delays were anticipated as the RPA was searching all vehicles.

AIR RWANDA has now appointed a Director-General; however, they have no finance to rebuild their operation including their headquarters which were previously destroyed. Sabena noted that they would be assisting in the rehabilitation. All AIRRWANDA ground handling equipment is now working. Sabena requested that agencies start handling contracts with AIRRWANDA to re-establish and support the business.

REPATRIATION

At an evaluation meeting held in Cyangugu on 10 September, it was decided that although the Division of local responsibilities was generally working well, there were several improvements that could be made including tightening up the registration system as the current system takes too long, allows tickets to be passed on to others and too many people fail to report at the right time. So far three convoys have departed from Cyangugu to Kigali carrying approximately 1000 people. Return convoys are planned at two day intervals starting from 11 September. The meningitis vaccination programme in Gikongoro means that convoys must not make stops nor pick up people in that area until further notice.

OTHER INFORMATION

The Rwandese Cabinet meet on Friday 9 September to discuss the crucial issues of salary levels, taxes and visas. Until local salary levels can be agreed there is little opportunity to provide an incentive for locals to work. Food for work suggestions have not been favourably received in many areas. (See SOUTH EAST).

Ambassador Robert Sherwood Dillon, Special Envoy of the Secretary General, has started his fact-finding mission to identify regional approaches to the Rwanda crisis. On 11 September he met with NGOs and UN agencies for the first time to discuss issues. Over the next week he will visit Burundi and camps in Tanzania and Zaire.

World Bank officer Steven Holtzman is travelling the country to identify when and how the Bank will re-start its activities in the country.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, UNDP, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, USAID-DART, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 9 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The situation remains calm; the RPA have now moved 150 troops into sector 4 to protect the new Prefects.

Repatriation has been suspended around Gikongoro while a meningitis vaccination programme is implemented.

The Rwandese Government have announced that no agency or NGO vehicle should provide lifts to any locals other than staff and that all Rwandese staff must carry identification papers.

UNDP have announced their draft outline for rehabilitation.

SECURITY

Increasing accounts of banditry and UNAMIR assessments of the possible signs of a build up to a guerilla war have all helped to increase the tension among the international community. Security is now a major issue; in Cyangugu, the UNREO Field Office reports that each agency and NGO will provide the following information to the UNHCR Security Officer: name of the person responsible for security; sketch map showing location of house and compound, number of persons resident and an inventory of communications equipment and frequencies. Travelling after night is not recommended.

The Rwandese Government has announced that agency/NGOs should not provide lifts in vehicles to any person not employed by that organization. This directive includes Rwandese military personnel. All Rwandese staff members should carry official documentation proving their employed status. This policy, according to the Prefect of Gisenyi who announced the policy at a meeting on 9 September, should allow free access through checkpoints.

REFUGEES

Returnee operations from the Gikongoro region have been suspended pending the completion of the meningitis vaccination programme (see South West). However, the UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that a second convoy operating on the locally agreed division of responsibilities reported in SitRep 05 September.

UNHCR have announced that they have stopped bringing people from camps in Goma back to Kigali for a brief visit as part of a programme to show people in Zaire what life is really like in Rwanda. The UNHCR say that the Rwandese Government have banned the policy on security grounds.

REHABILITATION

UNDP have announced their draft outline for the rehabilitation and reintegration programme in Rwanda; the immediate priorities have been decided as being:

1. Reactivation of local economic systems
2. Health
3. Education
4. Physical Planning and Administration
5. Human Rights in the broadest context including conflict prevention, land tenure and administration of justice.

Each of these sectors will be examined through five linked themes:

1. Reconciliation and Participation
2. Capacity Building in planning and programming and human resources training
3. Vulnerable groups
4. Environment
5. Gender Issues.

UNDP suggest that the programme will be implemented to include what they see as three fundamental principles of decentralization of decision-making, flexibility in implementation and simultaneous implementation of linked programmes.

HUMAN RIGHTS

An UNREO assessment team visited the site of a church outside Ntarama in Kigali prefecture. Approximately 400 people were massacred in and around the church during the war; the corpses remain where they fell. It has been reported that the residents of the village decided to leave the bodies in situ as a testament to the genocide committed by the former government.

POPULATION

There continues to be great uncertainty as to the numbers of people in camps, both within and outside Rwanda. UNREO are making efforts to bring in a demographer to concentrate on examining population flows in the region. A meeting is scheduled in Gikongoro for 9 September to discuss methods of counting numbers of displaced persons in the nearby camps.

SOUTH WEST

The RPA have now moved 150 troops into sector 4 in accordance with the agreement with UNAMIR. New Prefects have been established in several prefectures and the work of rehabilitating the civil administration has begun.

Repatriation activities around Gikongoro have been suspended until a meningitis vaccination programme can be completed. There has been concern that repatriation before this measure is complete could present unacceptable risks of spreading the disease to other areas.

The UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro reports that the meningitis vaccination programme to be undertaken around Cyanika camp and Gikongoro has been delayed for two days because of logistic problems. The programme to vaccinate 150,000 people is being extended to include the children's centre in Kigeme where 4 cases of meningitis had been discovered among the 600 children.

Dysentery continues to be a major cause of death in the camps; the UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro reports that NGOs are focusing on improving sanitation and nutrition in an effort to reduce the number of casualties.

As the rainy season comes closer, there is increasing concern about the quality of road infrastructure leading to the camps. BRITCON are preparing a timetable for the repair of bridges in the Kaduha area. UNAMIR noted several weeks ago that in the event of roads becoming impassable, they would use military vehicles to access the camps.

NGOs are about to open a fuel station in a former BP garage in Gikongoro. UNICEF are trying to get hold of the fuel tax free and the station will be run by Equilibre.

NORTHEAST RWANDA

Cattle herds which have been returned to the region are starting to die because of a water shortage. Foot and mouth disease and pulmonary infections are also reported in the USAID-DART assessment.

NORTH WEST

A medical meeting held in Gisenye on 9 September heard from ICRC that the overall water supply for the area should be operational twenty-four hours per day within the next week. The meeting also heard that patient consultation rates have continued to decline or remained stable within the last week. In the majority of health centres, consultations have mainly involved local populations rather than newly returned. The overall medical coverage has continued to increase. MSF/Holland now have 11 clinics operational, together with an EPI programme due to be introduced in the very near future. SCF/UK now have 10 clinics operational and AICF has opened a feeding centre in Ruhengeri. There have been an increase in mine injuries reported in the Ruhengeri area. UNAMIR have responded by increasing the distribution of mine-awareness pamphlets in the area.

As from 13 September, UNHCR/IOM will operate a fleet of 10 buses from Gisenyi to points within Rwanda. The carrying capacity of each bus is 45-50 persons.

The Prefect of Gisenyi announced that the school in Ruhengeri will re-open on 23 September and the Gisenyi school will start again on the 17th September.

KIGALI

There is a serious shortage of housing for the international community in Kigali; UNICEF report that as many as 20 staff slept in their offices until the end of August when they moved into hotel accommodation. Prices for hotels have been considerably increased by the international presence. Rooms without water and only intermittent electricity are still being rented for US$70-80 per night in some hotels. Organizations are now examining options to rent accommodation from embassies who have not returned to Rwanda. The inability to locate owners, severe damage to many houses, incidence of booby-traps and increasing concern about armed intruders all make the house-hunting operation difficult and time consuming.

USAID-DART report that AFRICARE is assuming the lead responsibility for solid waste disposal activities in Kigali; WHO will assist in the planning. AFRICARE is proposing to supplement the existing government fleet of three trucks with flat bed vehicles. The identification and establishment of a safe landfill site will require some planning and investigation. Earth moving equipment will also be required.

BURUNDI

The situation continues to cause concern; although the situation has remained stable for the last ten days an UNREO assessment team visiting Bujumbura on 8 September reported that security is expected to deteriorate further. Many people are expecting an escalation to co-incide with the anniversary of the murder of the elected Hutu president on 22 October.

This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 07 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The situation remains calm although there are reports of banditry and UNAMIR have observed the first signs of what could be a possible build-up for a guerilla war.

Returnee operations from Cyangugu are now operating in a coordinated manner with different agencies and NGOs taking responsibility for all important aspects.

The UN will be adopting a more region-wide approach to the crisis - the Secretary General has appointed a senior official to carry out an assessment.

RETURNEES

UNHCR report that between 23 August and 5 September, 1,737 displaced persons were transported back by UNHCR/IOM from Gikongoro and 1,367 from Cyangugu. 732 additional persons were transported by UNAMIR during the same period.

At Cyangugu the first convoy working under the locally agreed division of responsibilities left on 7 September for Kigali. At a meeting convened by UNREO, it was agreed that UNHCR are to provide registration and reception facilities while UNAMIR provide armed escorts for the five trucks. Food and water is provided by ICRC while MSF ensure medical cover. The 250 returnees will be taken to Butare for an overnight stop before being delivered home to Kigali and other points on the route. The international community working out of Cyangugu agreed upon the returnee system to ensure that all future operations are as coordinated and efficient as possible.

The UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that over 1000 people returned to Rwanda from Zaire on 6 September. The number of people moving from Rwanda to Zaire has tailed off dramatically; many of the people travelling into Zaire say that they are simply going into the camps at Bukavu to search for relatives to bring back home.

At Goma, an average of 1000 people are returning spontaneously every day. UNHCR are organizing the repatriation efforts. They noted that in the last six weeks some 100,000 people have returned from Goma. This is despite the absence of a formal repatriation operation. UNHCR say they cannot start such an operation until the security situation improves, both within the camps and within Rwanda.

SECURITY

The country is seen as generally secure, although there are continued accounts of banditry. UN personnel are not allowed to travel by night although the security phase was reduced from 4 to 3 on 1 September. UNAMIR report that many military-aged males, along with supplies of rations, water and arms, have been observed crossing into Rwanda from Zaire and Burundi. UNAMIR assess this as being classic preparations for guerilla warfare. Areas of particular concern include the Kibungo prefecture (especially area of Rusumo), the Foret Naturelle de Gishwati and Le Parc National de L'Akagera.

- The transition to an RPA presence in sector 4 is continuing; on 6 September Government Prefects, each protected by a 30-man platoon of RPA soldiers, were scheduled to move into Kibuye, Gikongoro and Cyangugu to begin the new administration of the south west area. However, it has been reported that, for logistical reasons, the troops did not move in as expected. Despite this, the plan remains for the RPA to continue significantly increasing their presence in the region over the next 2-4 weeks.

- Most of the French-established Gendarmerie have now handed over their weapons; the UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that as of 7 September, 213 had surrendered their weapons. Many of the them have volunteered to return to Kigali for training and integration into the new Gendarmerie.

SOUTH WEST

The UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro reports that a warehouse has been set up in Kigeme Secondary School to supply relief items to NGOs operating in the Prefecture. Stocks will include equipment for water storage, basic health care, provision of supplementary foods, shelter and cooking. The items are available on a first-come, first-serve basis with the priority being for projects supporting unaccompanied children. A stock report will be available at UNICEF and circulated in the area by UNREO.

SOUTH EAST

- Refugees continue to leave Rwanda for Tanzania although nobody knows why. Three UNHCR missions have visited the area in an effort to identify the cause but so far there is no accurate information. There is increased tension in the area as armed troops are observed crossing the border, possibly as a prelude to a guerilla warfare campaign (see under Security). UNHCR note that the Ministry of Interior are suggesting that the majority if Rwandese presently arriving in Tanzania are coming from Burundi.

An UNREO assessment mission will be sent into the region 8-9 September to identify possible future requirements.

Kibungo prefecture estimates that 85,000 persons returned to the area during August. Many of them will be long term refugees from Burundi.

NORTH EAST

A UNHCR/ Ministry of Rehabilitation and Social Integration/ADRA/Austrian Relief Programme mission to the area confirmed that some 100,000 refugees have returned from Uganda. The mission proposes a two-phase approach: 1. one-time relief for returnees (mainly household items), and 2. community-based assistance in the sectors of Health, Education, Crop Protection and Animal Husbandry.

WATER

Water supply has been rehabilitated in Kigali and 9 out of the 13 piped water supply schemes in the country are also operating.

SALARIES

Government employees are still not being paid; this is a problem which needs to be settled without delay. UNHCR report that some Government employees are now leaving the posts to which they had recently returned.

At the UNREO general meeting on 6 September, the Government representative said that some guidelines on salaries are expected to be ready for discussion by Friday 9 September.

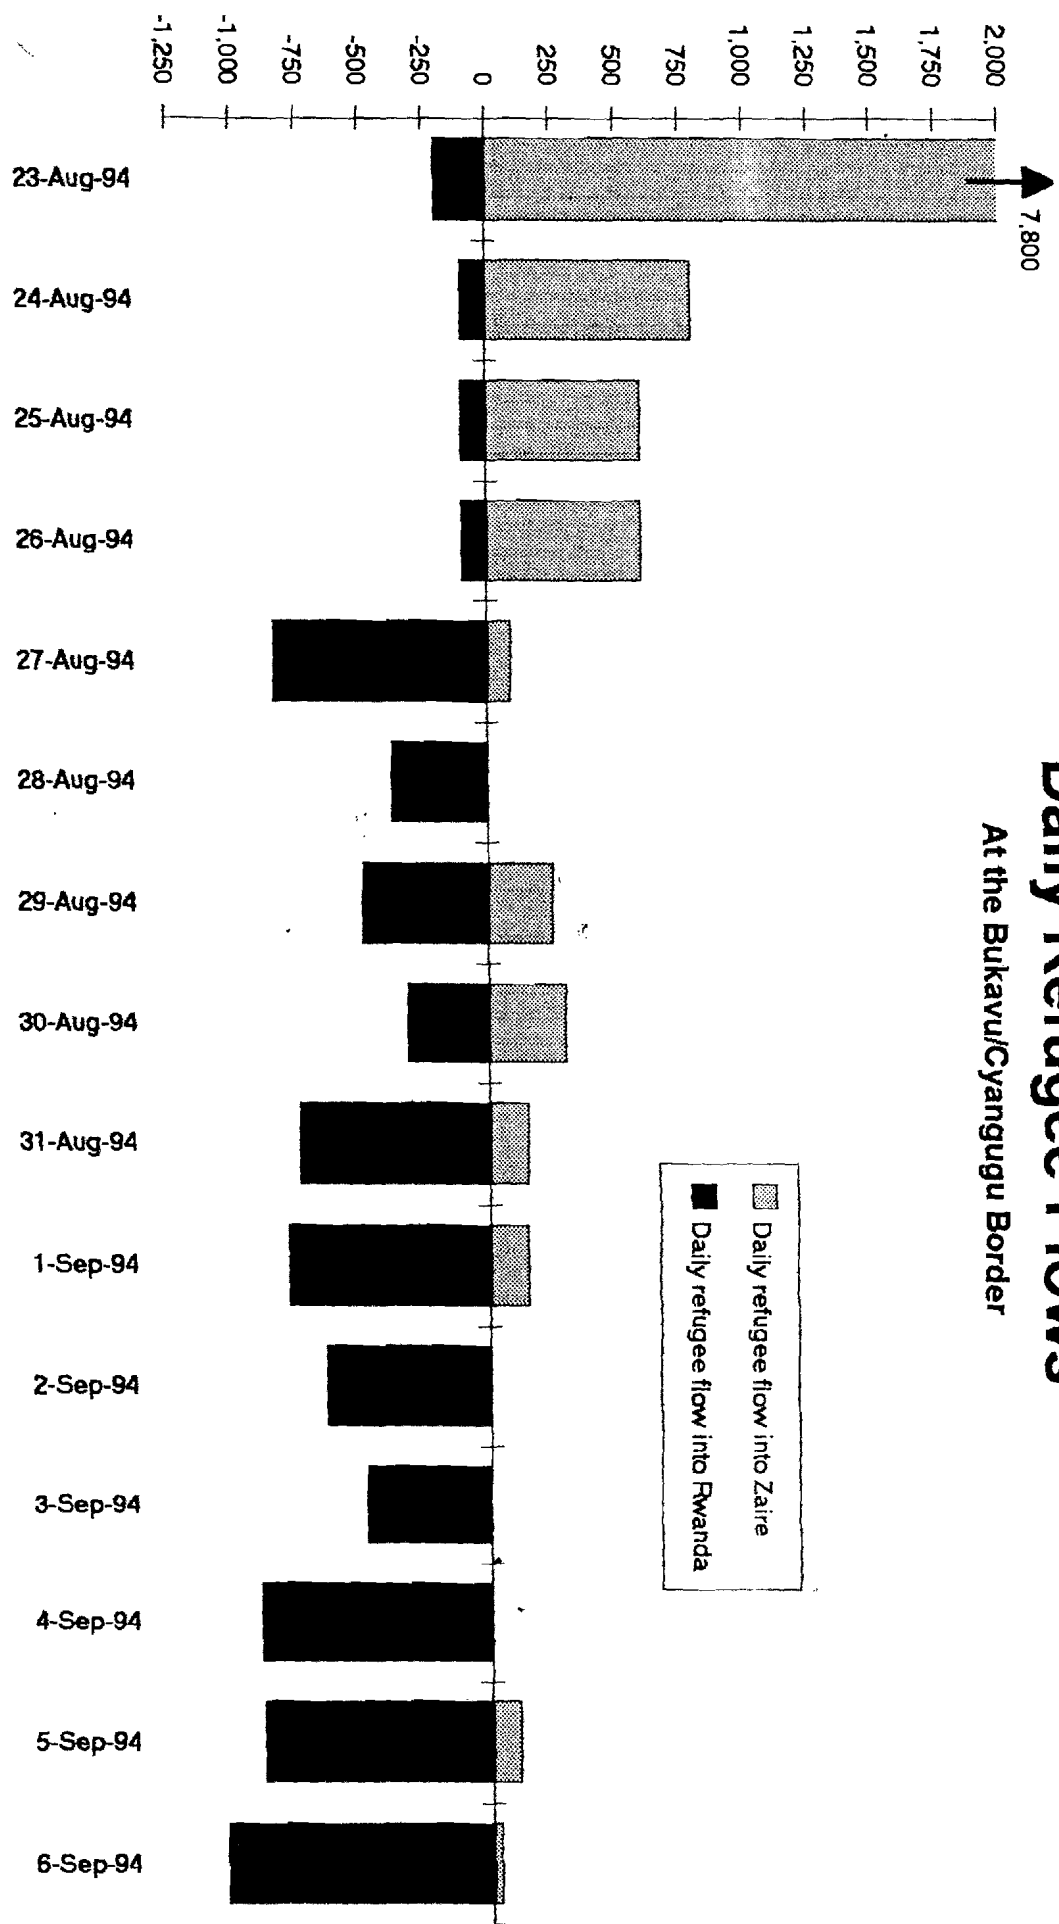

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT

A UN Environment Programme mission has arrived in the region to investigate the problems of environmental impacts of the recent crisis. With huge numbers of displaced persons and refugees, there is likely to be enormous problems of soil erosion and destruction of limited fuelwood resources. Contamination of water supplies and destruction of rare habitat are also potential problems. A recent CARE assessment mission to Gikongoro prefecture noted that environmental degradation was the most significant long term impact of the influx of displaced persons into the region.

OTHER INFORMATION

The UN are now moving to examine the Rwandese emergency from a regional rather than just national perspective. Moving to a regional approach will allow a more effective utilization of resources and enable the identification of the problems and implications of the emergency for the surrounding countries. To start the process, Robert Sherwood Dillon, former US Ambassador to Lebanon, will be visiting the region at the end of the week. The Secretary-General has asked the former Ambassador to consult with all concerned in the region and identify measures to strengthen coordination of the UN Humanitarian efforts throughout the region.

UNREO Humanitarian Situation Report
5 September 1994

This sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, IOM, UNAMIR, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 5 September 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The overall situation is calm although there are increasing reports of bandit activity. UN worker murdered in Gikongoro; Heads of Agencies have asked for more protection. There is increasing concern about the need to register all returnees before transporting them home. The humanitarian focus starts to move from emergency relief to community-based projects in the South East.

SECURITY

Although the country is regarded as secure, there are increasing reports of banditry, especially in sector 4. A WFP local staff worker and 2 members of his family were murdered in Gikongoro on Friday 2 September. At a Head Of Agencies meeting on 5 September, all agreed that UNAMIR should strengthen the protection of humanitarian staff. UNHCR have requested that UNAMIR provide armed escorts to all convoys, armed guards for the UNHCR staff house and a security channel on the radio. All UN agencies have been asked to provide a list of personnel to UNDP and to update security and evacuation plans.

In the South West, UNAMIR have given the Gendarmerie established by the French forces seven days to surrender their weapons as from 3 September. Those wishing to join the new Gendarmerie will be escorted to Kigali for training. 177 weapons had been handed in as of 5 September.

The RPA will have a liaison officer seconded to UNAMIR forces in Cyangugu as from Monday 5 September.

WORLD BANK GRANT

The US$20m granted by the World Bank last week for rehabilitation projects has been divided among the following international agencies, reflecting their mandates for humanitarian and rehabilitation action:

UNICEF	$10.5m for water, health and nutrition projects including the rehabilitation of 150 health centres, distribution of seeds, distribution of high-protein biscuits and rehabilitation of 11 water treatment centres.
UNHCR	$4m for health, repatriation and rehabilitation projects.
FAO	$4m for seed and agriculture projects.
WHO	$1.5m for three epidemiological projects.

REPATRIATION

With some 700-800 refugees and displaced people leaving Cyangugu every day, the importance of registration has been stressed by all UNREO Field Offices. It is estimated that there are some 482,000 displaced persons within the South West region.

There is increasing concern that all returnee operations need to register the people travelling back. UNHCR register all returnees picked up between Ruhengeri and Gisenyi; however, some convoys operating in the South West have not registered their returnees.

There have been reports that several people have been taken from trucks at RPA checkpoints and taken away. With no formal registration system, there is no way of knowing who has been arrested.

The UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reports that the following breakdown of responsibility has been agreed locally as a way to improve the efficiency and safety of returnee operations in sector 4:

Phase of Returnee Programme	Responsible Agency
Registration of returnees	- UNHCR
Transport of returnees	- IOM/UNAMIR/UNHCR/IRC
Security	- UNAMIR
Food and Water	- ICRC
Medical treatment	- MSF
Reception of returnees	- UNHCR

The convoys will travel from Cyangugu to Butare where the returnees will be provided with food, water and blankets for an overnight rest before continuing on to Kigali the next day. People will be returned to several towns and villages along the route.

Discussions are continuing to develop an effective country-wide repatriation programme.

REHABILITATION

The Rwandese Government held a rally in Butare on 3 September. The speeches focused on unity, reconciliation, security and the need for justice. The crowd of 7000 were assessed as being positive.

UNDP are starting two rehabilitation programmes; one lasting six months and the other for two years. They will have a nationwide and all-sector focus. At the moment they are looking to recruit 20 UNVs to help in the management of the airport with a long term view of handing over to a bilateral agency. The International Civil Aviation Organization is assisting in recruitment. UNDP are also focusing on providing equipment such as vehicles and computers to ministries.

AGRICULTURE

The Ministry of Agriculture and Husbandry are taking over the coordination of seed distribution activities in the country. At a Seeds and Tools meeting on 3 September the Government released their plan of action for rehabilitation of the agricultural industry, noting that the major problem is decide to return to this area. UNREO is encouraging NGOs and UN Agencies to focus assistance towards Kibungo, Bugesera, Butare and Gataama. An UNREO assessment team will be operating in the region later this week.

SOUTH WEST

The UNREO Field Office in Butare report that some 4000 refugees from Burundi moved into Nyakizo commune over the weekend of 3-4 September. UNHCR are trying to support their immediate needs.

MSF will be starting their meningitis vaccination programme at Cyanika camp on 7 September. The programme will last for 5 days and will cover 150,000 people within a 5km radius of Cyanika, Gikongoro and Kiraro.

People have been observed to be moving from Kibuye to Gikongoro. They are reportedly returning from Lake Kivu to Kibuye.

NORTH WEST

CARE reported that intense screening of returnees took place on 2 September in Gisenyi. House searches also took place. This reduced the numbers of people returning. By 2 P.M the situation returned to normal.

OTHER INFORMATION

Informal exchange rates as of 4 September:

Cyangugu	US$1 =	RwFr370-450

the lack of capacity to distribute seeds. Although seeds are now arriving in the country, the distribution network needs to be strengthened urgently. Caritas announced that they will be reviving their distribution network. It was recommended that seed distribution is combined with food distribution to ensure that the seeds are not consumed.

WATER SUPPLY

Butare is still without running water; the UNREO Field Office reports that the waterpump is broken and that even if it were fixed, the pumping station needs 10 operators and 15 technicians. The local authorities are responsible for finding suitably qualified staff. UNICEF have agreed to pay the initial salaries before handing over responsibility to the Government. Until the station is operation, UNICEF and UNHCR will try to provide water tankers. It was noted that a mass distribution system will not be possible, so each NGO must identify their requirements.

ADMINISTRATION

A meeting of administrators held last week noted that the Ministry of Finance is now able to register vehicles. Unregistered vehicles will not be able to enter the country. SCF(UK) report that visas, costing $20, are available from the Ministry of Interior Affairs. The visas are valid for 15 days but following this initial period an application can be made for a Visa de Voyage. This is valid for up to six months and costs 4000 Rwandese Francs. The applications needs to include the completed form, a letter of introduction to the Minister of Interior Affairs, passport and 2 photos. A Visa de Sejour is available for longer periods.

NORTH EAST

An UNHCR mission to Ngarama from 29-30 August reached the conclusion that relief assistance is required by 60-70,000 returnees. In the short term household items will be distributed to 8,500 families (60-70,000 people) and medical equipment will be provided to local health centres. In the longer term community based assistance will be given to help improve the health, water, education and community services.

SOUTH EAST

IMC report that they are supporting 11 health centres in the Kibungo Prefecture. Significant numbers of people are returning to this area (the population has risen from 32,000-112,000 in the last few weeks). Some of those returning are long term refugees from Burundi. The health centres are becoming increasingly stretched, particularly with the lack of trained local staff.

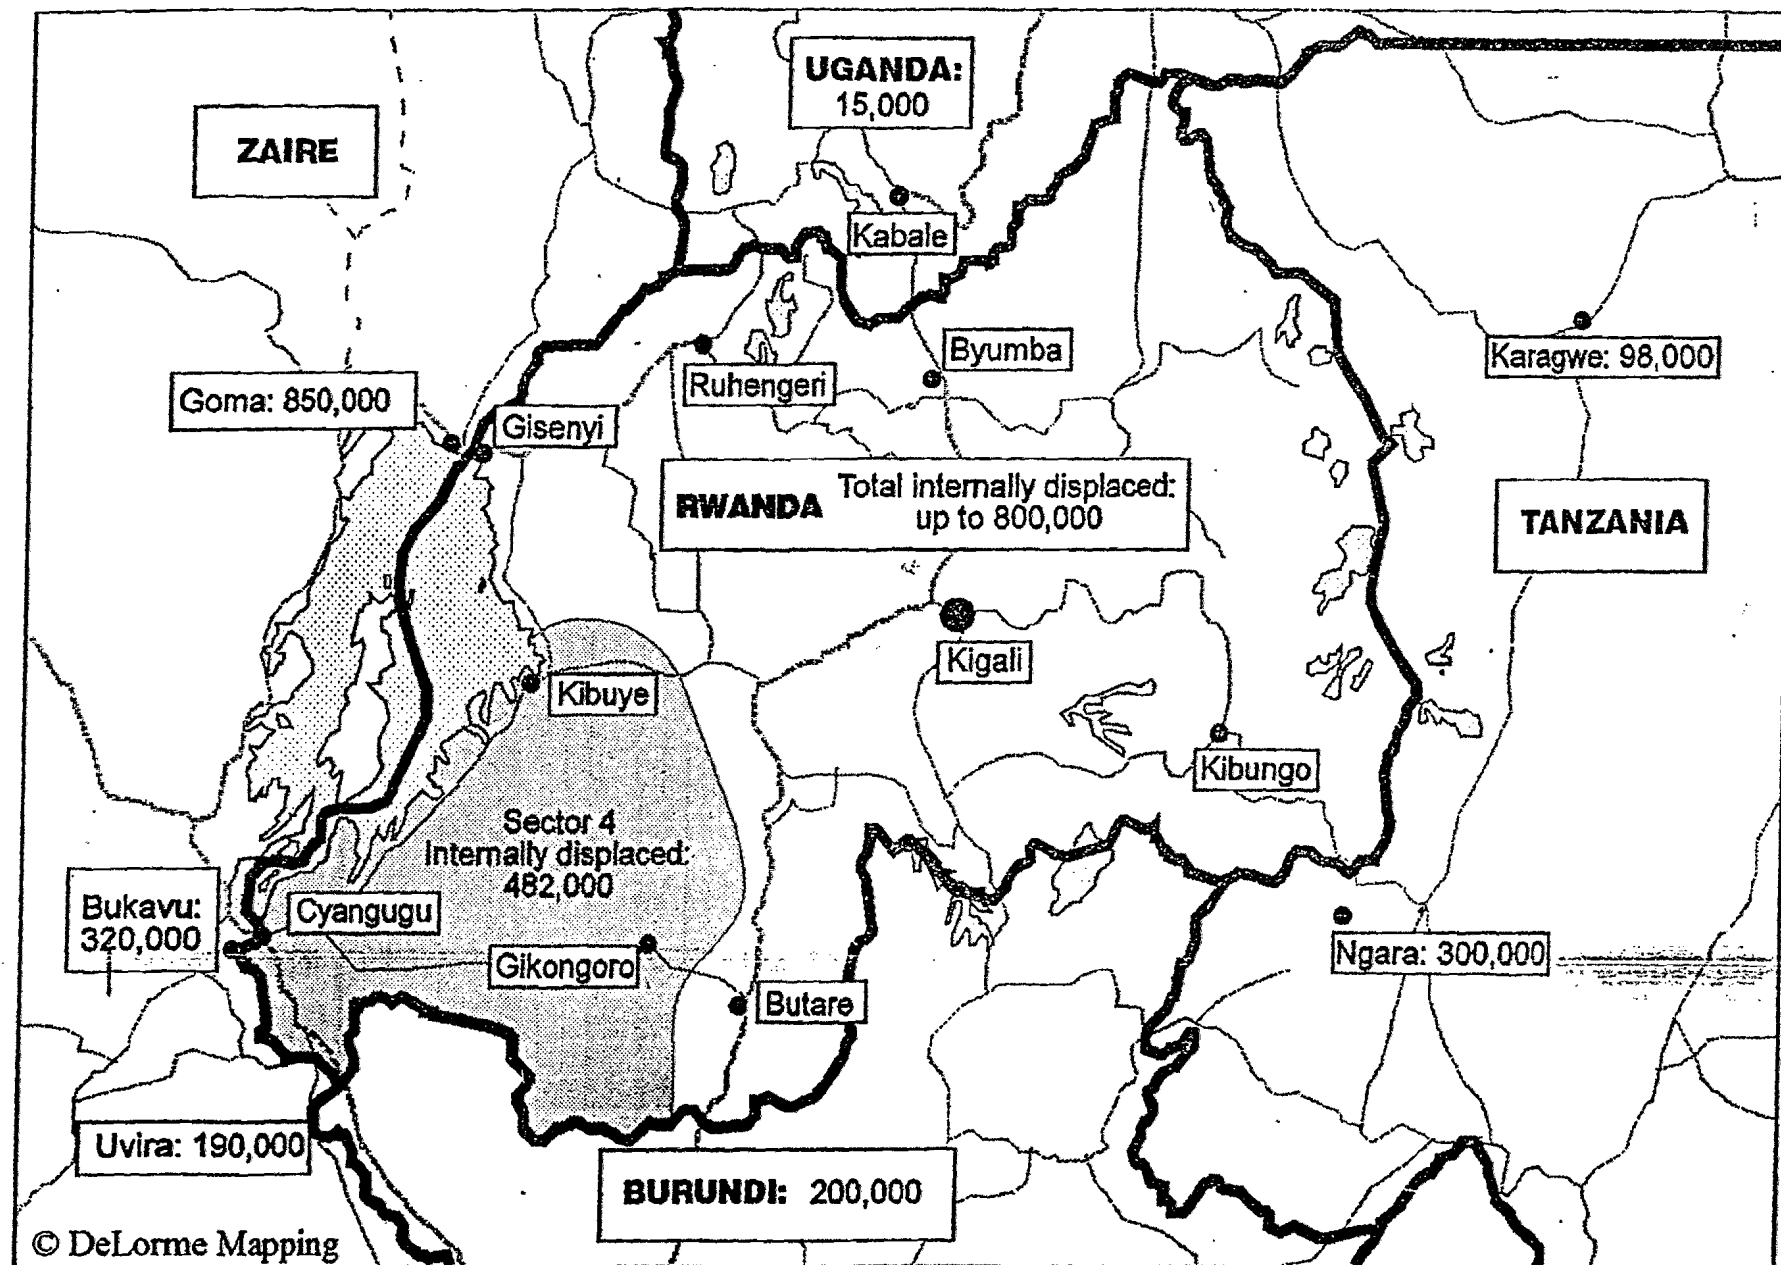

IMC report that most of the fields in Kibungo Prefecture are laden with rotting crops. They stressed that workers in profession such as teaching will be among the high risk category because they will have no way of finding food in the coming months.

ICRC report that they have food stocks in Ngara intended for Rwanda. They are distributing food to the displaced population in Kibungo Prefecture.

UNHCR report that the outflow from Rwanda into Tanzania has been continuous in the last few weeks. At its peak, 12,000 people crossed in one week.

The low coverage by NGOs of the South East could become a problem in the near future if people

Daily Refugee Flows

At the Bukavu/Cyangugu Border

This Sitrep is produced three times every week; Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, WFP, UNHCR, WHO, FAO, IOM, UNAMIR, US-JTF and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 26 August 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

A WFP/FAO survey suggests only five million people are still living in Rwanda from a pre-war population of 7.9 million. With 1.9 million refugees, this means that up to one million people perished in the genocide.

Half the remaining population (2.5 million people) in Rwanda face food shortages over the next few months and malnutrition rates are rising.

Increasing numbers of people are asking to be brought home.

Cyangugu is calm with reduced numbers of displaced persons; the international strategy to place the people in camps within Rwanda rather than allowing them to move to Zaire appears to be working. However, there are reports of intimidation of crowds and relief workers by FAR elements.

Violence is increasing in the camps and NGOs are concerned about deterioration in security, especially in the Goma region.

Tensions remain high in Burundi.

FOOD SECURITY

2.5 million people in Rwanda will face grave food shortages for the next five months according to a WFP/FAO assessment mission. Initial estimates of food aid needs until the next harvest in December total 165,000 tonnes - 140,000 tonnes of cereals, 17,000 tonnes of pulses and 7,000 tonnes of vegetable oil. The most affected areas are Byumba, Gikongoro, Ruhengeri and Kigali.

The mission reported that only five million people are still in Rwanda out of an estimated pre-war population of 7.9 million. Other estimates of population movements would concur with this assessment. It is estimated that there are perhaps some 1.9 million refugees with up to 1 million killed during the war. Of the five million still living in the country, some 800,000 are classified as Displaced Persons.

A SCF/UNICEF report also notes that malnutrition rates are increasing in the South West. Normal rates of malnutrition in the country are between 5-10% of children less than 80% weight for height (WFH). MSF-France have screened all children in one camp in Gikongoro and report 15% malnutrition. This situation could deteriorate because October and November are traditionally the worst months of the year for food supply in Rwanda. A survey carried out in 1992 showed that over 40% of the population suffered some food shortage during these months.

The conclusion is that despite the harvest in some areas not being as badly affected as originally predicted, there is still an extremely serious food shortage that needs to be addressed and seeds and tools are in short supply. According to FAO the last day for planting crops in Rwanda this season is 1 October.

SOUTH WEST

The situation in Cyangugu is reported as calm; HCR reported declining numbers of people arriving from Kibuye and Gikongoro. There are still some 2000 people waiting to cross into Zaire across Rizizi 2 bridge as of 25 August. ICRC has established a mobile clinic at Ruzizi 2. On 24 August 140 people were returned to their homes in Gitarama and Kigali by HCR and the British Army contingent of UNAMIR. On 26 August Rwandese Immigration Officers began operations at Rizizi 1, charging 4000RwFr for a visa to people travelling from Zaire to Rwanda. Similar operations are scheduled to begin at Rizizi 2 as of 27 August in a bid to collect revenue.

UN agencies and NGOs have been continuing in their efforts to convince the displaced population to move to camps in Rwanda rather than cross into Zaire. Local authorities are helping the international community to identify possible sites.

The camp at Mururu (5km from Ruzizi 2 crossing) is filling up rapidly with some 500 arriving every day. Latest count (25 August) is 4,000 out of 10,000 total capacity. This filling has prompted the opening of a second site at Kimbogo which will have a capacity of 5000.

The apparent success in finally persuading the displaced population to remain in Rwanda has caused a backlash from the FAR. Although many people appear keen to transfer to the Rwandan sites rather than cross into Zaire the UNREO Field Office in Cyangugu reported on 25 August incidents of intimidation of the crowd by people trying to prevent the displaced persons staying in Rwanda and moving to Mururu camp. The intimidators are presumably RGF supporters who want to bring the displaced population into Zaire. Staff from HCR and IOM were also intimidated with sticks and so they returned to their base.

Around Kibuye the situation is described as being generally calm with a significant reduction in the numbers of people in the camps. The population of three camps visited by UNREO on 24 August had dropped from 10,000 each over the previous week to 2-3,000. UNAMIR are assisting with the repatriation effort.

However, there are confirmed reports of an incursion of a small detachment of armed RPF troops near Mabanza. The troops penetrated approximately 20km into sector 4 before being turned back by Senegalese troops of the UNAMIR contingent. Although only an isolated and minor incident the local population were reportedly distressed by their presence. There is no information at present whether the incursion was an accident or deliberate. The Rwandese Government has officially announced that it will only move into the former French zone in a civilian capacity until UNAMIR gives it's consent to a military presence.

Around Gikongoro there are reports of people moving home from Cyanika camp (5km from Gikongoro) aided by UNAMIR transport. The UNREO Field Office also reports adequate food supplies in the camp for the moment. However, sanitation continues to be of major concern and will present a serious risk to public health as the rains continue.

Recent UNAMIR surveys of the area south of Gikongoro estimated some 345,500 displaced persons in 14 camps as of 24 August. Some 400 were returned to their homes by HCR/UNAMIR 23-24 August.

The UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro reported two recent destabilising incidents where a hand grenade exploded at Cyanika camp on 25 August, injuring several, and two grenades exploded at Ngaro camp, also on 25 August, killing 2 and injuring 4.

NORTH WEST

There are increasing reports of further deterioration in camp security in the Goma area with escalation in violence and intimidation once again. The Zairean Government has asked to meet for the first time with the Rwandese Government to discuss the refugee problems. A three day meeting is being held over the weekend 26-28 August.

KIGALI

UNAMIR continue to be faced with increasing reports of unexploded ordnance and booby-traps. UNREO maintains an updated map identifying sites where unexploded ordnance in the city. The British Army Explosive Ordnance Disposal team report that $4million is needed to start a comprehensive bomb clearance programme.

The restoration of power supplies has been recognised as a prime need for the rehabilitation of the country; it is estimated that six weeks and $2 would be required to restore power sources.

The western half of Kigali now has a working telephone system; a complete city network is expected to be ready shortly.

General Marcel Gatsinzi, former commander of the Rwandan army, is in Kigali having discussions with the new Government. He was brought to the capital from Bukavu by UNAMIR at the request of the Government.

Salaries for local staff is a major issue that needs addressing; with no business, no banking and no revenue, payment for work becomes critical to the rehabilitation of the country. Workers want cash rather than food and with the need for large numbers of workers to rebuild the economy, a solution is required to pay them. UNDP are in close discussions with the Government and the relief community to identify possible solutions. The Rwandese Finance Minister is in Washington discussing funding options with possible sources of funding.

HUMAN RIGHTS

The UNCHR reports that 147 Human Rights Monitors will be operating in Rwanda by the end of September. At a General Meeting held on 26 August, the importance was stressed of thorough, rapid and complete investigation of violations of human rights in the country and in the refugee camps in bordering countries.

BURUNDI

A UNREO assessment mission in Bujumbura reported increasing tensions in the city on 25 August as discussions about power sharing continue. There have been some 230,000 refugees arriving in the Kirundo area from south of Butare in the last six weeks; however, it appears that the tension in the country is primarily of internal cause rather than being directly related to the refugee exodus. Many trees in the city have been observed as being half-cut through to enable rapid creation of roadblocks should the situation deteriorate further.

SITREP OF 24 AUGUST 1994
UNREO, Kigali

This setrep will now be produced three times every week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The information contained is compiled from inputs by organizations working in Rwanda including UNICEF, WFP, UNHCR, IOM, WHO, FAO, UNAMIR, JTF, and NGOs. This document is intended to represent the best available information as of 1200 24 August 1994.

GENERAL SUMMARY

The situation in the South West appears to be stabilizing with a reduction in numbers of displaced persons moving from Gikongoro to Cyangugu. The situation in Cyangugu is described as calm.

Agencies are starting to move resources from the North West to the South West to meet increased demands.

There are increasing numbers of unexploded bombs, booby-traps and minefields being discovered in Kigali although the UNAMIR has no mandate to clear the devices.

UN agencies are in close discussions with the Rwandese Government to prepare a rehabilitation policy for the country. A strategy for investigations into Human Rights abuses has been announced.

NORTH EAST

UNICEF report that although the current focus is on the South West, there is increasing concern about conditions in the North East. UNICEF report large population movements of returnees from Uganda in the area, straining the capacities of what few camps remain. UNICEF sent supplies of non-food items to the region on 21 and 22 August in an on-going effort to improve local capacity.

In the Byumba area UNAMIR are reporting that the roads are being repaired and water being restored. Up to five thousand people have been returned to Kigali to date by the UNAMIR supply trucks.

NORTH WEST

ICRC report that the expected destruction of crops due to lack of harvesting and the beginning of the rains has not been as bad as anticipated. There are now predictions that agricultural output would be "fairly good" and that there is now significant harvesting activity underway in the region. However, there is still requirement for additional tools and seeds to ensure a viable food supply in the region.

HCR arranged for five religious leaders to be transported from Goma to Kigali to discover the conditions in the capital. They have been returned to the camp to disseminate their findings in an effort to counter the continuing policy of intimidation by the RGF.

Some organizations are reducing their operations in the region as demands have increased in the South West. CARE report that they are downsizing the waystation provision on the Gisenyi-Ruhengeri road. They had originally intended to operate six stations for returnees. However, the rate of returnee movement has been so low that only three stations are being provided by IOM, HCR and CARE. Inter-agency discussions are also underway to introduce a tracing service for unaccompanied minors discovered at the waystations.

SOUTH WEST

HCR reports that the relief operation around Cyangugu is under control and that refugees entering Zaire are being ferried in trucks to prepared camps 85km west of the border to avoid a concentration in unsuitable areas. Tension has now decreased and the situation is described as calm. Reports suggest that between 5000 - 8000 people are still congregated between the two border bridges. Generally, the impression is that the strategy has been successful and the international community is moving towards a stabilization phase.

However, although the situation appears under control at the moment agencies are maintaining a close watch on developments before the assistance focus shifts from refugees to returnees. Several areas are of particular concern related to the inclement weather and heavy rain in the region:

Sanitation - Oxfam has expressed concern that sanitation issues are not being adequately covered. This situation could deteriorate with the increasing rainfall causing contamination of sites and water sources.

Roads - UNAMIR report worries about the viability of several road routes to remote camps in the South West could be severely affected by heavy rainfall, hampering supply provision by standard vehicles. UNAMIR will use military vehicles to ferry supplies to remote camps if conditions deteriorate.

Shelter - there is still a shortage of plastic sheeting for shelter. HCR/IOM trucks are delivering sheeting and other non-food items for distribution by NGOs.

Health - WHO are moving their epidemiologists in Goma to Bukavu. They will possibly be co-located with HCR. WHO and BIOFORCE are also studying options to establish an epidemiological laboratory in the Bukavu area. Hospital Sans Frontiers report that they have taken over the main hospital in Cyangugu from the French military, but they report requiring urgent staff support. WHO report that the French have left considerable EMIR medical kits in Cyangugu for local use. ICRC will be increasing their flights into Kamembe from 4 to 6 next week by transferring their Goma shuttle to the South West region. WFP has now started a wet-feeding programme in Bukavu because of the poor nutritional status of some of the incoming population. The UNREO Field Office in Gikongoro noted on 24 August that there is local concern about the available water supply because the required diesel fuel to power the water pumps had not been delivered. UNAMIR confirmed that the diesel would be delivered today, August 24.

In Kibuye UNAMIR have returned some 350 returnees from camps back to Kigali. Eight British trucks will be bringing more returnees to Kigali today, August 24 after having dropped off supplies. HCR moved approximately 300 people from Gikongoro on August 23. HCR report that the situation is stable. However, UNAMIR are anticipating increased requests to return displaced persons from the Gikongoro area but note that there is a shortage of available vehicles because of the current demands from the Cyangugu area.

The UNREO field office in Kibuye reported large population movements in both directions along the Kigali road, with the majority moving towards the capital. The people are reported as appearing to be in good condition.

KIGALI

There is increasing concern about mines and booby traps that are being discovered in the capital. UNICEF report that warehouses containing large supplies of medical drugs had been booby-trapped during the war. They are now advising staff to assume former public buildings are booby-trapped until proved otherwise. However, UNAMIR currently have no mandate or insurance cover to clear any such booby-traps.

The British Explosive Ordnance Disposal team working in UNAMIR report widespread unexploded shells and mortar bombs on roads and in residential areas of the city. They have also discovered several unmarked minefields in public areas. They report that two children are being killed every day in Kigali by unexploded bombs. However UNAMIR, which has no mandate to clear any unexploded bombs, can only register their existence. UNICEF, UNAMIR and UNREO are co-operating to improve public awareness of the bomb threat. Negotiations are underway with the RPF to identify the full extent of the minefields in the city. Any NGO with a mine clearance capability can contact the UNREO NGO Liaison Officer for further information.

There is still no solid waste disposal system in the city and concern is rising that areas will be contaminated when the rains increase.

BURUNDI

Reports have been received of increasing tension in Burundi as hardline and moderate Tutsis endeavour to agree on powersharing. If no agreement is reached by the end of the week agencies are anticipating a possible deterioration of the situation. An UNREO assessment team is in Bujumbura August 24 to investigate conditions.

HUMAN RIGHTS

The representative of the UN Commission on Human Rights announced on 23 August a three-part policy to address human rights issues in Rwanda.

1. A technical cooperation assistance package has been proposed by UNCHR to the Rwandese Government. This would aim to improve the material and personnel available to the Human Rights investigations, establish a penal system and provide for the introduction of a civil police service. The UNCHR stressed the importance of such structural assistance in creating a viable and reasonable alternative to summary justice. The representative emphasized that such assistance must be immediate to provide a practical infrastructure for rebuilding. The package, when agreed, will be put out for donor sponsorship.

2. Monitoring. UNCHR aim to have 150 Human Rights Monitors in place soon. This would provide 2 monitors per prefecture. They are in discussion with UNV and human rights NGOs to increase the speed of response. The Rwandese Government has agreed to provide three focal points for the monitoring system to enhance the speed and effectiveness of the operation. These focal points will be in the Ministries of Interior, Justice and Defence.

3. Investigation. The UNCHR stressed that reports received on human rights abuses will be investigated by them to either corroborate or refute the allegation. After their initial investigation the case will be handed over to the Government. Initial sources will not be revealed and the corroborating report will be made in the name of the UNCHR.

A three-person Security Council Committee of Experts is arriving on Sunday 28th August to establish contacts in the country and agree on methodology.

Several donor country and NGO representatives expressed disappointment that a more rapid and comprehensive response was not being announced and emphasized the importance of pressing donor governments to improve their response to the human rights issues.

OTHER INFORMATION

Three UNREO Field Offices have now been established in Cyangugu, Gikongoro and Butare in response to the increasing concern about displaced populations in the south west area.

Discussions are underway with the Rwandese Government to second Government officials to UN agencies as part of a re-habilitation package. UNDP are organizing the production of a report into re-habilitation options in conjunction with the government. The report is expected to be finished within a couple of weeks.

The US CMOC are now providing an aerial reconnaissance service in collaboration with UNREO. Regular surveys of selected pressure points will allow surveillance of the changing refugee flows.

The Ministry of Rehabilitation noted on 21 August that there are some 15,424 unaccompanied children in six of the ten districts. This figure does not include the south west area where no survey has yet been completed.

Concern has been expressed about administrative issues for NGOs operating in Rwanda.

1. Salary scales for local staff. UNDP report that they are using the same salary scale as existed before the war and that they are paying local staff in US dollars at the rate that existed in March 1994. (144 Rwandese Francs to 1 US$). The Disaster Management Team, meeting on 24 August, agreed to establish a forum to discuss with the Government the issue of pay scales for local staff (in particular for health workers).
2. The RPF are now issuing 15-day visas for those entering by road. However, there was confusion about opportunities to increase the visa duration. At the Disaster Management Team meeting on 24 August UNDP agreed to investigate the problem and report back.
3. With the increasing number of foreign vehicles operating in the country, CARE requested advice about how to legally register vehicles in Rwanda. UNDP noted that the Rwandese Ministry of Finance is able to organize vehicle registration. This will make movement easier through RPF checkpoints.

UNDP announced on 24 August that it will chair the coordination process for capacity building of national ministries to ensure a integrated UN input.

The Team visited Ndera, a displaced center 8 kms east of Kigali. RPF report 15,000 persons in the general area whom they advise are having to walk greater distances to find food in the fields. RPF requested that World Food Programme bring food for these people. The Team did not see 15,000 persons during their visit and saw some local people arriving with 50kg sacks of food while departing. Prior to the conflict, Ndera was a mental hospital which also provided some general services. The Team visited one of two orphanages in the center - total orphans in Ndera is advised to be 200 by RPF. Some malnutrition was evident as was diarrhea and scabies. Drugs are in short supply. The Team plans to return tomorrow with MSF, and with unimix, biscuits, ORS and medicines for the orphans and hospital.

(d) EPI:

RPF advise that EPI is concluded at Kabuga and clearance has been requested to visit there tomorrow to confirm the statistics with the doctor. EPI will commence at Ndera either tomorrow or Tuesday beginning with the orphans. The doctor at Ndera advises he has sufficient trained staff for this and also requested that UNICEF consider vaccination programmes for meningitis and TB.

(e) RPF Liaison:

This has now improved with the assignment by RPF of a Major Rose for direct liaison on humanitarian interventions, etc.

SITUATION REPORT # 62

Kigali

The Minister of Rehabilitation and Social Integration estimates that there are 89,000 people currently living in Kigali.

The first contingent of Australian troops have arrived in Kigali.

South West Rwanda

According to Operation Turquoise, the estimated number of displaced persons in this region are as follows:

Gikongoro	600,000
Cyangugu	800,000
Kibuye	300,000

UNREO reported that the rumour that the RPF is killing people who leave the safe haven zone is spreading fear in the region. There is a worry that people will flee to Bukavu when the French withdraw.

WFP reported that malnutrition has risen to critical levels in Gikongoro. Food supply and delivery continues to be difficult.

Burundi

The situation has continued to deteriorate in Bujumbura. The MSF France house was attacked and a vehicle destroyed on 8 August. Nobody was injured. Only one exit road from Bujumbura is now passable. Shooting and grenade attacks are widespread across the city. A number of international personnel have been evacuated from Bujumbura in the last 24 hours. ICRC reports that two flights scheduled for today managed to land.

Tribal clashes are continuing in Muyinga and Kirundo in Northern Burundi.

Zaire

Goma

UNICEF reported that half the refugee population in Goma are children. The majority are cared for by at least one parent. However, a rapidly increasing number (estimated at 5% of children) are separated from their families. There are 6,500 unaccompanied children at 20 UNICEF centres. UNICEF expects that by the end of August, this number will increase to 10,000.

UNICEF estimates that there are 700 deaths per day due to bacillary dysentery. These numbers are expected to rise. UNHCR estimates 3,000 cases of dysentery. 7 measles cases have been reported so far. 7 cases of meningitis have been reported. The Italian Government medical team has brought in vaccines for meningitis. Cholera deaths and cases are going down.

According to UNHCR 50 tankers are providing 4 million litres of water to the camps every day.

Radio Gatashya (of Reporters Sans Frontieres supported by HCR) began broadcasting on 7 August in Goma.
